BY JAYNE W. MILLER

BURLINGTON - Thursday's rain may have delayed graduation and moved it inside to Burlington High School, but a few thunderstorms could not hold back the excitement of 318 Shawsheen Tech graduates or the pride their parents, teachers, and school administrators demonstrated at Friday's Commencement exercises.

Sixty-two students from Wilmington and ninety-one students from Tewksbury graduated from the Shawsheen Valley Technical High School. The class and guests heard a welcome address from Shawsheen Tech Superintendent Charles Lyons, followed by recognition of achievement by School Committee Chairman Robert Peterson, Esq.

Analog Devices requests tax relief

Initiative would allow expansion in area

BY AMANDA GELDHOF
Crier Correspondent

WILMINGTON - Outside of the high school project update, discussion of a possible expansion of Analog Devices dominated Monday night's meeting.

David Zinsner, Vice President and Chief Financial Officer (CFO), and Ira Moskowitz, Vice President and General Manager, US Operations,

Analog Devices jointly presented the board with the general expansion plan, which would add approximately 250,000 square feet of office and lab facilities making the project worth about $100 million. The project would add a significant number of jobs in Wilmington and bring in tax revenue for the Town.

"Given our history here, Wilmington is a natural choice to expand in," Zinsner said. But he was not shy in letting the Board know that Wilmington is not the only site the company is able and willing to expand upon. Although details were not given at the meeting, Zinsner said a location in Ireland was not out of the question.

The Analog Devices representatives requested that the Town offer the company a real estate tax relief

Construction delay could cost taxpayers $3M more

Appellants agree that High School project should continue; DEP ruling expected by end of June

BY AMANDA GELDHOF
Crier Correspondent

WILMINGTON - The Board of Selectmen and the School Committee held a joint meeting on Monday night at Town Hall to update the community on the progress of the high school building project and the appeals facing it.

The high school building project is currently facing two appeals to the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) from community members. Thirteen residents, called the Ten Resident Group, signed the first appeal while the second appeal is from an abutter to the property.

The DEP scheduled a site walkthrough with a DEP representative and representatives from all involved parties: the Town, the Ten Resident Group, Headwaters Stream Team (HST) and the abutter. Sandra Brock of Nitsch Engineering, chief engineer of the high school project, said some of the appellants did not have a lot of issues with the project. She said many of them just wanted the Order of Conditions to be written more clearly.

"We have a fairly good idea of what's coming," Brock said. "We are looking at the end of June for the Superseding Order of Conditions to be issued [by the DEP]."

Target store project closer to fruition

Water main installation on Grove Ave

WILMINGTON - With discussions on the high school appeals and Analog Device's expansion plans, you would think that the Board of Selectmen would have nothing left to discuss, but the community certainly kept them busy at Monday's meeting.

TARGET

The Target Development Project is making headway as well. In 2009, when the Planning Board originally considered the construction of a Target retail store at 200 and 210 Ballardvale Street, Target halted the project because of the "queasy" economy. In May, 2012, Target came forward with an amendment to the original site plan.

On June 5, the Planning Board considered the amendments: 200 and 210 Ballardvale having independent drainage systems, moving the proposed building slightly closer to Ballardvale Street, increasing the size of the building to 139,000 square feet with 506 parking spaces. Traffic expectations remain the same according to the memorandum sent from the Director of Planning and Conservation Carole Hamilton. All of the listed changes were approved at the June 5 meeting.

Target has also requested special permits regarding signs that exceed the num-

Kick-off programs June 16 for kids, teens, and adults

BY MELISSA HANSON

WILMINGTON - June 16 marks the beginning of Wilmington Memorial Library's Summer Reading programs. The events offered to children, teens, and adults continue through August 17. Last year 568 Wilmington residents participated in the Summer Reading and this year the librarians hope to see at least 600 participants. Although the main focus of the library is to encourage people to read, many of their activities are not solely reading based, as they want residents of Wilmington to see the library as a community center and a place to have fun.

Barbara Raab, the children's librarian, has chosen a theme of "Dream Big, Read!" for this summer's events. Her programs target children from infants to those in the 5th grade. Each week the activities are directed toward a different theme, including nocturnal animals, space, and stars and the moon. There are different crafts to demonstrate these themes throughout the summer, like making dream catchers, finger puppets, and solar systems. There are also books that portray each of these themes reserved for story times.

Each child may enter the library raffle for each book read, either through the jar on the counter or by using the online system. There are also special events that chil-

“Wish Upon a Star” Fri Night at Wilmington’s Relay For Life

WILMINGTON - This week is busy for the participants and the planning committee of the fourth annual Relay For Life of Wilmington. The event starts Friday, June 15 at 5:30 pm at Shawsheen Valley Technical High School. The theme this year is Disney’s When You Wish Upon a Star. Relay For Life is open to the public that night until 11 pm so everyone can join the fun and fight back against cancer.

The American Cancer Society event is coming together with a buzz of excitement, energy and anticipation. In addition to the new location for 2012, the planning committee reports exciting additions to the overall program. For example, live singing performances will be part of the ceremonies this year. There are also new sponsors including Whole Foods, Kayem Hotdogs and Boston radio station 104.1. Food and beverage choices have been expanded. New items include gluten free pizza and Starbucks available from start to finish.

Many of the event activities center on the Disney theme Wish Upon A Star making the atmosphere upbeat and bright especially for children. The planning committee uses the central Walt Disney notion “You can design and create, and build the most wonderful place in the world, but it takes people to make the dream a reality.”

Again this year, the top fundraising teams are acknowledged for their efforts with special awards. Right now the top team is Sole Sistas with a donation total of well over $13,000. The 10-member team is organized by Captain Jenn Kwiatkowski. She participates to honor her father and her cousin as well as many friends’ loved ones. As she says, “We need to put an end to moms, dads, daughters, sons, cousins, aunts, uncles, friends and most of all children hearing the words You have Cancer.” Carolynne Benedetto is the current top individual fund raiser with over $4200 to her credit. She relays because of her sister who was diagnosed with cancer in 2003. Luckily Benedetto reports, “Today she is healthy and happy and the mother of my two beautiful nieces.” Benedetto has participated in 10 Relays overall. Beyond fundraising, the Relay also strives to bring together people for fun, inspiration, comfort, and celebration. Entertainment this year includes more music and a new fitness demonstration area. And directed again by volunteer Patrick Giroux, there is an expanded Relay Fun Zone for children with face painting, races, carnival-like games and much more. Three ceremonies will help participants celebrate, remember, and fight back. On Friday after opening comments, survivors are invited to come together to walk as a group and help everyone celebrate the victories achieved over cancer. Later that evening, the Luminaria Ceremony will honor those touched by cancer and remember loved ones lost to the disease. Then on Saturday morning at the closing, there is a Fight Back Ceremony where participants can make a personal commitment to save lives by taking up the fight against cancer. ber and size allowed in the Town bylaw. A final decision for the sign requests will be made in August.

Ryan Kwiatkowski (left) and Connor Grabowski (right) are shown here collecting donations for the Relay of Life of Wilmington. Friday evening they’ll be part of the hundreds of team members and visitors who come together at Shawsheen Technical High School to have fun while they remember and honor those affected by cancer. The young men are part of the Sole Sistas team who has raised over $13,000 to fight back against the disease. The public is invited to the family fun night.

According to the memorandum, construction is expected to begin no earlier than spring of 2013.

Grove Ave water main

Residents of Grove Avenue neighborhood should plan on longer commute times this summer as the Water Department installs a new water main on a portion of Grove Ave.

Construction on the site will begin on Wednesday, June 13. Grove Avenue will be closed at the location of construction, which will start at the intersection with Burnap Street and proceed west approximately 2,100 feet.

The Water and Sewer Department expect the installation of the water main to last six to eight weeks. Service connections to the new water main will take an additional five to six weeks. The road will then be patched for the winter season and will be repaved the following spring. Water service to some residents may be temporarily disrupted during this process and the Water and Sewer Department suggests residents keep a gallon of water on hand in case of unexpected disruptions.

MBTA plan

The Board of Selectmen has agreed to support a resolution calling on the governor and the Legislature to develop a “comprehensive and long-term solution to the transportation crisis” facing the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority (MBTA).

The MBTA Advisory Board asked each of its members, 175 townships in the Boston Metropolitan area, to consider the resolution.

Principal and Assistant Superintendent Robert Cunningham offered Reflections on the class, bestowing words of achievement and advice on graduates moving on to military service, college, and employment. “Be engaged in your work, focus on doing well, care for your materials and tools, and most of all find the creative fulfillment that is possible in the activity of your labor as you support your lives in adult experience,” said Cunningham.

Student speeches were delivered by the Class Valedictorian, Jessica Kenney of Tewksbury headed to MIT, Francesco Catizone, Salutatorian, of Tewksbury, and Class President Shannon Lavargna, also of Tewksbury.

“If I have learned one thing in my time here, it is that life will present you with all different kinds of obstacles, big and small. There will always be people who tell you that you can’t do something, and it’s always up to you to prove them wrong,” said Lavargna during her address. “Don’t be easily discouraged, because whenever a door is closed, a window is opened; it’s just up to you to find those windows and climb through them.”

through the State’s Economic Development Incentive Program.

Peter Milano, Senior Regional Director of the Massachusetts Office of Business Development explained the program to the Board and community.

“The Economic Incentive Program is a three-way partnership between the company, the Town and the State,” Milano said. He went on to explain that if the Town decided to provide real estate tax relief, the amount of property taxes Analog is currently paying would not change. The tax relief would only apply to the expanded property. The Town could provide tax relief on five to 100 percent of the increased property value for five to 20 years.

If the Town decided to participate, the contract would then go to the State Board of Economic Assistance Coordinating Council that would then decide if the State could provide Analog Devices with investment tax credits between zero and 10 percent on private property assets.

Town Manager Michael Cairra said companies have asked the Town to entertain these types of arrangements before.

“[Previously] we had been of the position that nothing has impressed us enough to agree,” he said. “The scope of this project has given pause, and this project is worthy of consideration of breaking the mold.” He continued to say that if the Town proceeds, it would need to be very careful. He said it must be clear that it is only because of the size of the project.

In order to participate in the Economic Development Incentive Program, the Town must apply and be approved as an Economic Target Area (ETA) via the State. Milano said there are 11 different criteria that would allow Wilmington to become an ETA. If approved as an ETA, Wilmington would be able to capitalize on contaminated properties via tax credits, loans and Massachusetts development. Milano said that although there is no way to guarantee any number of the newly created jobs to Wilmington residents, he said there is language that could be added requiring Analog to advertise the new jobs in Wilmington a few weeks before the rest of the state.

Many of the selectmen said that they offer initial support of the project but are not ready to make the final decision yet.

Selectman Judith O’Connell said that while she appreciated the presentation and the presence of the representatives, she would like to look at some real tangible data to make an informed decision.

“If we are going to do this in Wilmington we would like to get started as soon as possible on the first phase of the project,” Moskowitz said. He explained that the expansion is a multi-year project so time is a factor.

“I echo the Town Manager in terms of the scope of the project dwarfs anything we have done in the past,” Town Assessor Skip Moynihan said. “I think we have to have a more candid discussion with Analog in terms of their timeline.”

Analog has agreed to meet with Cairra and Moynihan to discuss more details of the project and its effects on the Town. Cairra and Moynihan will issue a recommendation to the Board of Selectmen after the meeting.

Analog Devices established in Ireland in 1977 and has grown to employ 1,200 people at its original and main Irish hub in Limerick and over 40 people at its design facility in Cork. In 2011, Analog announced a 50 million euro R&D investment at its Limerick facility that will create up to 100 highly skilled jobs, according to the Industrial Development Agency (IDA) of Ireland, the agency responsible for the attraction and development of foreign direct investment in Ireland.

Just this week Thermo Fisher Scientific celebrated the opening of its new Tewksbury plant with a ribbon cutting. Thermo Fisher left its Wilmington location for Tewksbury when the town offered similar tax incentives. Tewksbury became an economic target area in November 2010. Andover, North Andover, Chelmsford, and Billerica are also Economic Target Areas.

It's Your Money

YOUR IRA AND TAXES

The tax breaks are terrific when you contribute to traditional retirement savings accounts during your working years. Trouble is, when you take the money out, Uncle Sam wants that money back. That's why it's taxed as ordinary income. You can do something about it: diversify the taxability of your retirement assets.

When you reach age 70 1/2, you must make certain minimum distributions from your retirement accounts - but not your Roth IRA. If you are eligible, it's often wise to move funds from a traditional IRA into a Roth. You will pay taxes on the money at that time - but much less than at retirement, when those assets would have appreciated. The earlier you move those assets, the greater the eventual tax savings.

In your taxable account, you may want to move some assets out of income funds and into lower-taxed municipal bonds, dividend payers and investments expected to rise in value.

So many money decisions have tax consequences. We can help you figure them out at

Letters to the editor

Thanks from Mrs. Hastings

Dear Editor
THANK YOU! I would like to express my sincere appreciation and thanks to all the wonderful people who attended the memorable retirement "open house" for me at the Brookside Nursery School. There were many thoughtful parents, ex-students, students, family and friends who were there to take me back through memory lane. I was truly overwhelmed receiving a plaque from the Town of Wilmington in appreciation of my 45 years of teaching, a lovely canvas depicting the school, and many beautiful flowers, gift cards, plants, "bubbly" and numerous retirement cards. Thank you one and all!

Also, thanks to Ken and Christina Warren, Bonnie Murphy, Gary and Heidi Hastings and to my husband Jim, for all they did to organize this gala party that I shall remember always. Love to all the children whose lives I have touched
Sincerely
Ginny Hastings

Meaning of generosity

Dear Editor,
Thank you to the Wilmington Friendship Lodge for allowing us to use their facility for a very successful car wash benefiting the Relay for Life team "Wishing Upon a Cure." And to those that stopped by and donated so generously, from all of us we thank you graciously.

"Being considerate of others will take your children further in life than any college degree." ~Marian Wright Edelman

Thank you Wilmington for showing this great group of 15yr olds what it means to be kind and generous to others. They are doing their part to fight cancer, and you showed them this past Sunday you are behind them 100%!

Regards,

"Wishing Upon a Cure" Team

Amazing experience for middle school students

Dear Editor,
We just wanted to send a quick note expressing our sincere appreciation for all the staff of the Wilmington Middle School who helped in planning and chaperoning the 8th grade field trip to Washington DC. It was truly a labor of love and commitment on their behalf, they went above and beyond the call of duty and the week seemingly went off without a hitch.

We especially want to recognize and thank the school principal, Ms. McMenimen, teachers, Mrs. Spinazola and Mrs. Simmons, the two nurses, Mrs. Furlong and Mrs. Trites and the chaperone of my daughter, Ms. Jackson and all the other chaperones who worked tirelessly on our children's behalf.

We also want to thank the public safety officers,

Officer Bruce and Officer Moon. I am sure there were many, many others as well who played a part in making this trip very enjoyable and educational for our children.

Wilmington Public Schools is very lucky to have the support of the town manager, Mr. Caira and our School Superintendent Benton. They understand that learning doesn't just take place in the classroom and some children, without this trip, would never have had the opportunity to see our great Capitol. They learned many life lessons as well which can only help them as they enter high school next year. Thank you and Congratulations to the 8th grade team for doing such a wonderful job.

Sincerely,

The Nasiff Family

Thanks from Barry Family

Dear Editor,
On behalf of the Barry family we would like to say thank you for all the support and love we have received. It is comforting to know that so many were willing to lend a hand and offer support during our time of sorrow.

We would also like to thank Nichols Funeral Home and especially Margaret whose kind words and attention to the needs of our family was warm and genuine. There will always be a special spot in our hearts for you.

And to Gregg, RIP our son and brother, God Bless You.

Again thank you all,

The Barry Family

Acts of Kindness

Thanks, Coach

As promised, I want to dedicate this month's column to the men who make a difference every day to all of us. With Father's day approaching, my list naturally begins with all of the dads out there who show up to their kids games and concerts, help them with their projects, shuttle them to activities. A special thank you to the single dads, step-dads, military dads, foster and adoptive dads, who father under very special circumstances.

Given that it is also the last week of school, I wanted to thank all of the school staff (male and otherwise!) for all that is done to nurture our children on a daily basis.

Now, I want to take a moment to put a spotlight on a very special person, the coach. As you may have noticed, my own life reflects in this column pretty regularly. And, as the parent of four children, I have experienced both being a coach as well as being a parent on the sideline (and being married to a coach!) I have been lucky to observe some pretty awesome coaching for my children this year and it is with that in mind that I write this.

The coach is the person who gets to the field, even if still in work clothes, to encourage our kids to try something new or to push themselves a little more. One of my kids coaches will ask "did you give it your best?" when they get discouraged and if their answer is a bright smile, he has done his job. Another coach encourages my daughter to just try when she timidly enters the game and makes her feel like a superstar when she runs back to the sidelines at the end of her shift.

My oldest child came home from school one day with this story: he was playing soccer at recess with some other boys and one of the kids made a comment that my son wasn't "good". Before my son could respond, "T", a friend and teammate, said "Leave him alone. He is on my team and he is great." At that moment, not only was I impressed with "T" (and his parents and coach!) but I also realized that this was more than just a "sport". My son was learning teamwork!

I promise next month I will get back to acts of kindness suggestions (especially for the kids over summer vacation!) but this month I wanted to take a moment to thank all of the men who have influenced us, and I hope you do as well.

My dad was my softball coach growing up, as well as my brother's baseball coach and I am sure it amuses him now when he sees us coaching our children and I can only think down the road, someday, God willing, I will be at my grandchildren's games and I am pretty confident that, rather than sitting next to me on the sideline, my kids will be across the field, at the bench, with a clipboard, and the credit goes to those in their lives right now who are showing them all of the ways that they can be a positive influence to their own children and to all children. And, to that, all I can do is humbly and ever so gratefully say "thanks, Coach".

Op-Ed

Why I voted against the health containment plan

The House's health cost containment bill, which passed last Tuesday 146-7, reflects the supermajority's iron-fisted refusal to pursue market-based strategies that have been successful in cutting costs in other states. Instead, the House opted for an experimental approach that, at best, will slow spending growth. I voted against the House plan because:

- It fails to use proven free-market approaches to reduce costs,
- Risks that patients will lose access to specialized care, and
- At best, only slows the rate of growth in spending rather than cut costs

The plan also continues the state's troubling habit of expanding state bureaucracy to "monitor" the healthcare system, which distorts the insurance market, makes healthcare more expensive for everyone, and justifies continued government growth.

It is very worrisome that healthcare spending is still rising faster than economic growth, which will translate into tax increases unless we harness the power of the free market to cut costs. We must use proven cost containment tools, and others, including:

- Tax-advantaged Health Savings Accounts (HSAs)
- Increased competition from out-of-state insurers
- Comprehensive review of all insurance mandates
- Meaningful medical malpractice and tort reform

We don't have to reinvent the wheel. We already have a blueprint for consumer-driven containment strategies that will help cut costs and put people in control of their own healthcare decisions. If you send me to the state Senate, I'll continue to advance the cause of fiscal discipline on Beacon Hill.

3 Days & 50 Miles Closer to a Cure

Michael, Shelley and Tara Hardimon

Dear Editor,
Last year we participated in the MS Challenge Walk, a three day walk starting in Hyannis, MA honoring those with Multiple Sclerosis including our mother. We had some (ok lots) of aches and pains from walking, but we also heard heartfelt stories from amazing people. Well, we are back again this year! Over the past two years, generous individuals throughout the community allowed our team to raise over $13,000 for MS care and research. This year we want to raise over $7,000 bringing our total to over $20,000! All donations go towards research to help understand and prevent MS, support programs for those with MS today, advocacy and awareness campaigns for the future, as well as clinical trials.

Every hour, another adult in the US receives that diagnosis: multiple sclerosis. MS is a chronic, often disabling disease that attacks the central nervous system. Symptoms may be mild, such as numbness in the limbs, or severe, such as paralysis or loss of vision. The progress, severity, and specific symptoms of MS are unpredictable and vary from one person to another. Since our mother was diagnosed, she has been struggling with the unpredictability of the disease, but she also is overcoming it hoping there will one day be a cure. Her strength and determination certainly helped us complete the 50 mile trek last year—this year will be no different.

This year's walk will be held on September 7th, 8th, and 9th and will start in Hyannis, MA and will go through many picturesque towns throughout the Cape including Yarmouth and Brewster. We will walk for three days, covering 50 miles of the Cape showing our dedication to our mother and many, many others we have met with Multiple Sclerosis.

You can help us by donating to our team, Northshore Warriors. Please know that any size donation provides hope and strength to our mother, and countless other families.

Please visit the "Challenge Walk" section on the National MS Society's Central New England Chapter (<http://main.nationalmssociety.org/goto/northshorewarriors12>) to donate to our team, the Northshore Warriors. You can also mail a check made payable to the National MS Society to 12 Birchwood Road Wilmington, MA 01887. On behalf of our mother and all individuals and families with MS, thank you for your consideration, and taking the time to read this letter!

Dear Wilmington Residents,

Why does the Wilmington school committee refuse to pay its school RNs a professional wage?

School nursing is one of the most challenging and rapidly changing specialty areas in health care today. Why? Because schools have seen dramatic increases in the number of medically fragile children who are in the classroom, including children with Type 1 diabetes, life threatening allergies, asthma, seizure disorders, and feeding tubes.

School RNs are required to be licensed educators by the state Department of Elementary and Secondary Education (DESE). But school RNs must ALSO be licensed professional nurses by the Board of Registration in Nursing. In other words, being a school RN requires dual licensure.

Yet, in Wilmington, school RNs are the ONLY education professionals who are NOT paid on the same wage scale as other licensed educators.

Paid on the same professional wage scale:

- Speech & Language Therapists
- Counselors
- Psychologists
- Classroom Teachers
- Specialist Teachers
- Social Workers
- Physical Therapist

Segregated & denied access to the professional wage scale:

- School RNs

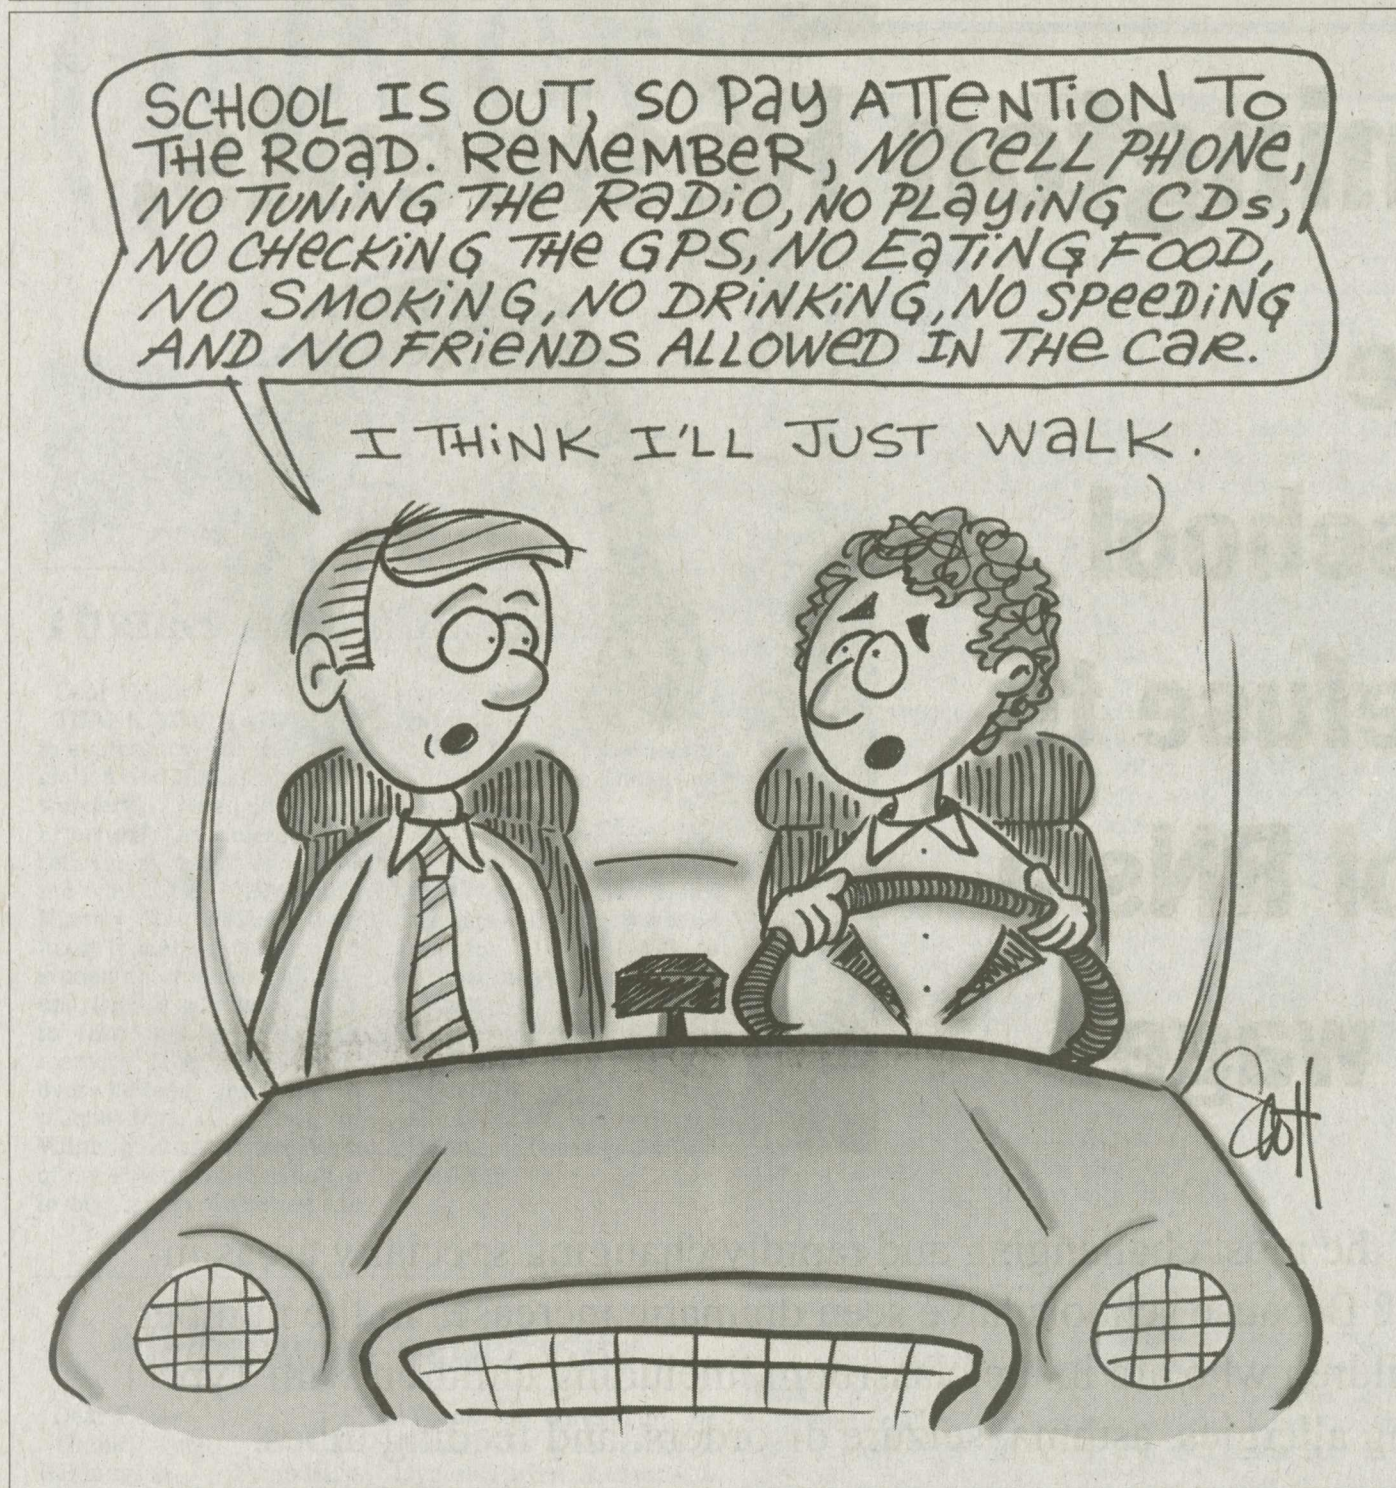

The school committee has told the school RNs — who have been without a contract for over nine months — that “philosophically” they do not believe the school RNs should be paid the same as all other licensed educators in the district. Rather, it has chosen to retain a labor attorney and undergo the “fact finding process” in its ongoing effort to deny nurses access to equal, professional pay. This process will cost the town taxpayers significantly more than settling the nurse’s contract.

In other words, the school committee will spend thousands of tax dollars to deny school nurses equal pay.

In solidarity,

The Wilmington School Nurses

Town Crier Film Series

Madagascar 3: not just for the kiddos

By CATHERINE FRANCIS
Town Crier Intern

When I saw the first Madagascar, I was not impressed. When I saw the second Madagascar, I was bored to tears. So, as I sat down sitting waiting for the third one to start, I was dreading the film and the fifteen dollars I spent on the 3D glasses. Yet, to my astonished surprise, I thoroughly enjoyed Madagascar 3: Europe's Most Wanted. Alex with the voice of Ben Stiller, along with Marty (Chris Rock), Melman (David Schwimmer), and Gloria (Jada Smith) all are trying to escape from one of Europe's most famous animal patrol officers. While running, they come across the Circus and the four animals, plus the monkeys and those beloved penguins, join.

In the beginning of the film while still in Africa, Alex kept on saying over and over (and over) how wonderful New York is and how he wants to be back in the cage entertaining high fans. Unfortunately, this chitchat goes on far too long and I kept wondering, "When are we going to get to the good part?"

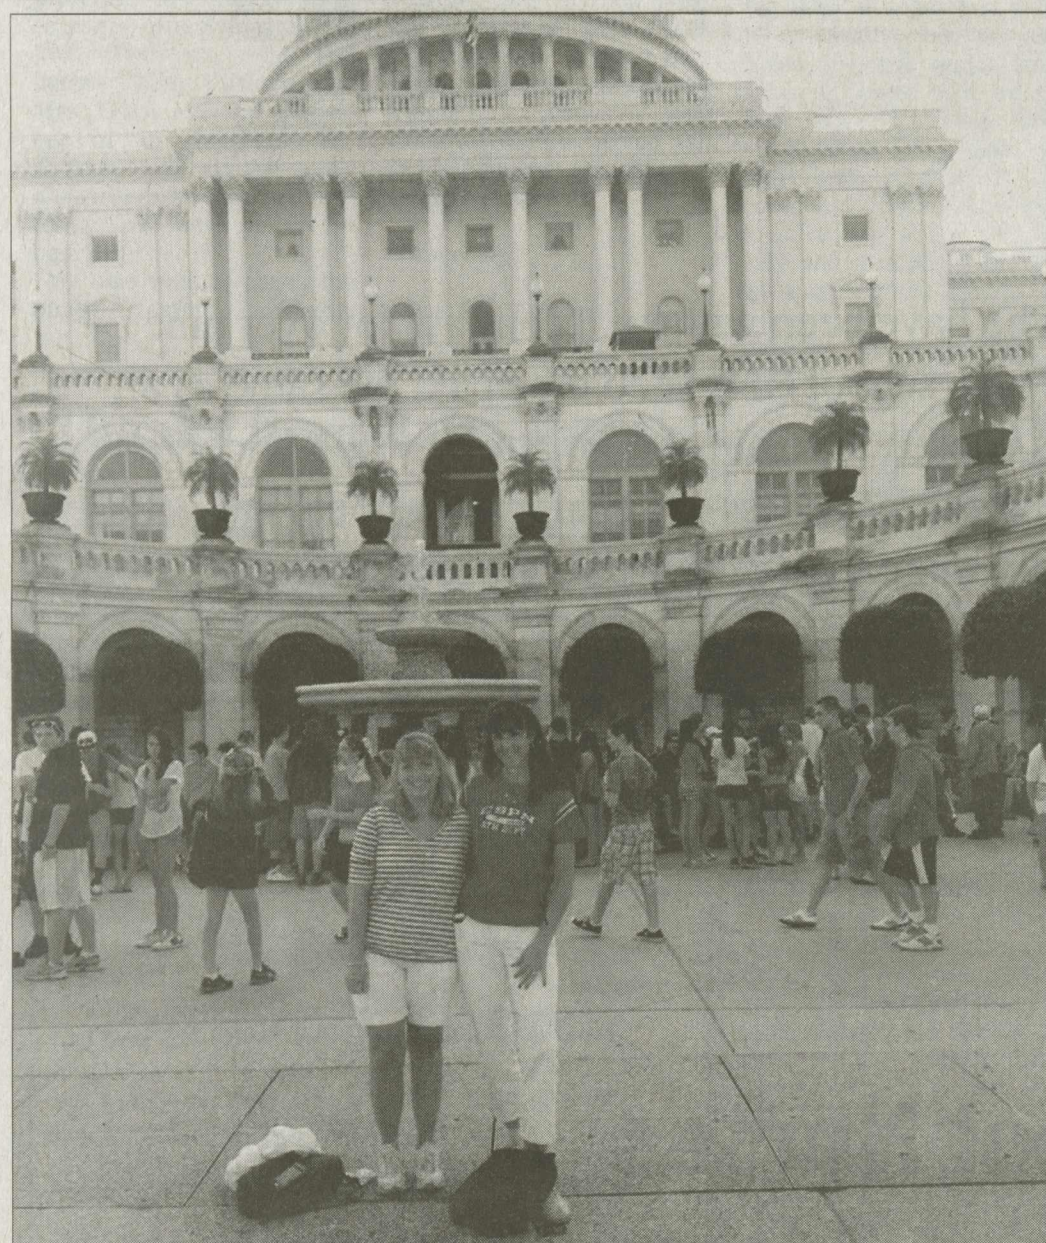

Eventually the film reaches countless hilarious parts. While Alex's humorous portion of the film fell a little flat, the funniest parts of Madagascar 3 were reserved for none other than Julian (played by Sacha Baron Cohen of Borat and The Dictator fame). Most of the main animal characters were not seen as often as the previous movies. Instead, the directors of the film brought in several new characters. Surprisingly, this switch of the point of view was a breath of fresh air.

As for the animation, Madagascar 3 has used many unique techniques. Towards the end (although I do not want to spoil it), there are vibrant colors throughout the screen within this experimental portion of the film that made me appreciate the growth and development in each of the characters. According to a Dreamworks press release, more than 120,000 individual computer-generated frames were used to create the film. Further, the majestic Circus Act sequence features the largest, most detailed crowd in DreamWorks production history - more than 5,000 individual characters. The scene includes several special effects including haze, sparks, glow, fire and rain, and required 1.6 million render hours to produce.

When Julian had a funny moment in the beginning of the movie, the entire audience started to laugh. This is when I wondered, "Where are all the children?" The audience on opening weekend included grandparents without grandchildren, parents without kids, and teenagers enjoying themselves. Of course, there were children all around me, just like most animated movies. Take your favorite date to see Madagascar 3 because most everyone will enjoy this uproarious film whose message resonates no matter what your age.

The audience on opening weekend included grandparents without grandchildren, parents without kids, and teenagers enjoying themselves.

Let's Hear it!!

Your Two Cents...

Kudos on 8th grade trip

Reason 72 Wilmington is a great Town to live in".....the Annual 8th Grade Field Trip! Thank you to all of the people involved with bringing our children to the nation's capitol to help them learn and understand what the Great U.S. of A. is all about. The kids come home with a lot of great memories and experiences they will never forget. Congratulations to Ms. Benton (Superintendent of Schools) and the School Committee for being supportive of this annual trip. It demonstrates their commitment to provide the best, well-rounded academic experience for the youth of Wilmington!!

Remember D-Day

Last Wednesday June 6 was a very important anniversary, sixty eight years ago on June 6, 1944, 160,000 Allied troops landed along a 50-mile stretch of heavily-fortified French coastline to fight Nazi Germany on the beaches of Normandy, France. General Dwight D. Eisenhower called the operation a crusade in which "we will accept nothing less than full victory." More than 5,000 Ships and 13,000 aircraft supported the D-Day invasion, and by day's end on June 6, the Allies gained a foot- hold in Normandy. The D-Day cost was high -more than 9,000 Allied Soldiers were killed or wounded - but more than 100,000 Soldiers began the march across Europe to defeat Hitler. We must never forget the sacrifices that so many made that day and the years that followed.

Great job on field trip!

Thank you to the Wilmington Middle School's 8th grade administrators, teachers, nurses and Wilmington's public safety officers for all their efforts in planning, hosting and chaperoning the very successful 8th grade field trip to Washington, DC this past week. What a great group of Adults, and Kids!

Special Performance

On Friday, June 8, the 3rd grade students at the Woburn Street School put on a spectacular show about Patriotism. Clearly, this should have been seen by our entire town. It was that good. The music, speakers and the display of America at its best was a joy to watch. Thanks to all who made this a memorable day. Proud Grandparents.

Scholarships awarded?

I am very disappointed in the example set by scholarship committees in Wilmington this season. My son applied to the Town, Rotary, Chamber of Commerce and Soccer scholarships advertised for seniors heading to colleges. Not one committee acknowledged his application. Not one wrote and said "thanks for applying, many students applied; unfortunately we chose another applicant. Good luck in your future endeavors." Where is the common courtesy of a reply? If we are to teach our young adults to be considerate of others and to follow through on their work, shouldn't we model that behavior? If you put a name and phone number in the Town Crier as a contact, then you should return the student's call. If you ask students to fill out forms, submit transcripts, solicit and submit recommendations from teachers and others, and then thoughtfully answer questions such as "what does Wilmington mean to you" and "why are you deserving of this scholarship", wouldn't it be appropriate to let them know their applications were received and considered? You leave them thinking they just wasted their time and efforts and perhaps were not considered at all.

Thumbs up to WMS staff for field trip to D.C.

Last week six tour buses full of the Middle School's 8th grade class made their way to Washington D.C. It was the third time WMS returned to the nation's capital since taking off 8 years due to the Sept 11th attacks. It's a trip these kids have looked forward to since they entered WMS as 6th graders, but little did they know what a great time they would have, walking an estimated 5-10 miles per day. None of the fun, camaraderie and of course the amazing education they would be getting would be possible were it not for much of the WMS staff. Ms. McMenimen, her teachers, medical staff, resource officers and anyone else who had a hand in making this trip once again be a successful and safe one, deserve to be commended. Thank you for a job well done!

Police Department to participate in MIAA simulator driving training program

WILMINGTON - Wilmington police department members will proactively participate in a driving safety simulator program designed to reduce the risk of accidents and lower the town's insurance costs.

Contained in a 30-foot mobile trailer, this state-of-the-art, computer-driven simulator realistically replicates more than 150 driving conditions that operators of police cruisers, fire trucks, ambulances and other municipal vehicles may encounter, including snow, rain, fog and darkness. In addition, the course includes one-on-one training for fire, police and other public safety employees on emergency procedures and safe driving techniques.

Members of the town's police department will participate in the training presented by the Massachusetts Interlocal Insurance Association (MIIA), the town's property and casualty insurance provider. The training is offered free of charge as a membership benefit.

MIIA statistics indicate that there is an average of a 10 to 25 percent reduction in accident frequency following completion of the driving safety course. Upon completion of this program, the town is eligible to receive insurance premium credits through the MIIA Rewards Programs, reducing its property and casualty insurance costs.

MIIA is the non-profit, member-based insurance arm of the Massachusetts Municipal Association (MMA) insuring nearly 400 cities, towns, and other public entities in the state. In fiscal year 2011, more than 5,200 city and town employees participated in over 235 MIIA-sponsored technical trainings and management seminars offered throughout the state. Member municipalities' efforts yielded more than $2.4 million of premium credit collectively through the MIIA Rewards incentive program for a nine-year total of $14 million. For more information please visit www.emiia.org and www.mma.org.

Boston/Bedford Veteran Expo pairs veterans with services

BOSTON/BEDFORD - The Department of Veterans Affairs Boston Healthcare System and Bedford VAMC are partnering with the MA Department of Veteran Services and the community to host a benefit and job Expo for those who have served our nation. The Veterans Expo will have many federal, state, and local agencies on hand to explain benefits and programs available to assist Veterans with their transition back into civilian life.

"This event will bring together many government service agencies under one roof to assist our returning service men and women with navigating the oftentimes confusing benefits process," said Michael M. Lawson, Director of VA Boston Healthcare System. "These men and women need jobs, support, and answers to their benefit questions; this is just the venue to provide that and much more."

The Expo will also feature seminars throughout the day on Accessing VA benefits, Life after Deployment, Women Veterans Healthcare, Financial Planning, Communication for Couples, and more.

"Veterans have earned a wealth of benefits from their government and their communities. Ready access to those benefits is an on-going task and the VA Outreach team is there to help our Vets clear a path right through those obstacles," said David Hencke, Outreach Coordinator for VA Boston Healthcare System. "This Expo is a high-energy, resource packed afternoon for anyone who has ever worn the uniform as well as their families and friends who support them."

Veterans should bring their resume and proof of military service as there will be many businesses in attendance looking to employ

Veterans. In addition, over 40 support agencies will be attending including the MA Department of Health and Human Services, American Consumer Credit Counsel, Army Wounded Warrior Program, Military Family Life Consultants, MAVA Spiritual Strength Network, Veterans Upward Bound, the Yellow Ribbon Reintegration Program and many more. For a comprehensive list of businesses and agencies that will be at the Expo visit our web site at www.boston.va.gov.

While at the Expo, Veterans will be able to enroll for VA healthcare and meet with representatives from the Veterans Benefits Administration to learn about VA Home Loans, Educational / Post 911 GI Bill Benefits, VA Non-Serviced Connected Pension Benefits, Service Connected Compensation Benefits from injuries related to military service and Vocational Rehabilitation & Employment (VR&E) Benefits. In addition, Veterans will be able to enroll in eBenefits which is a collaboration between the Department of Defense and VA. Our online eBenefits is a one-stop shop for benefits-related on line tools and information.

The Expo is free and will be held at Bunker Hill Community College, from 1 p.m. - 8 p.m. on June 20, at the Multi-Purpose Center Building G, 250 New Rutherford Ave., Boston. Call 857-364-5934 for more information.

Free parking is available and the event is accessible by the Orange Line.

The Expo is a great way for Veterans to see what's new and network with other Veterans and agencies designed with their needs in mind.

Grove Ave to be closed

Wilmington water main repair

WILMINGTON - Please be advised that the Wilmington's Department of Public Works, Water and Sewer Division will be grinding and installing a 12-inch water main on Grove Avenue from Burnap Street to Winchell Road. The project is starting on Wednesday, June 13, 2012 and is expected to conclude by the middle of September 2012.

During this construction project, Grove Avenue will be closed in both directions from Burnap Street to Winchell Road. Access to the Town Beach will be open at all times via Main Street. The closure will be effective from 8:00am until 4:00pm, Monday through Friday. Occasionally the evening hours could be extended an hour or so to properly terminate the work for the night. Traffic will be allowed only to the residents that live in that portion of Grove Ave. The roadway is narrow with many underground utilities and for these reasons, we are closing the road. It will make for a far safer environment for both travelers and workers. The area residents, including the Park Avenue neighborhood off of Grove Avenue, will have access to and from their properties at all times.

Please obey the directives of police details, and warning signs during all construction operations.

If you have any questions, or require additional information, please contact the Water and Sewer Division at 978-658-4711.

OBITUARIES

Anthony J. Ferrara

The Family Therapist; published “Beyond Parenting: When Love Gets In The Way”

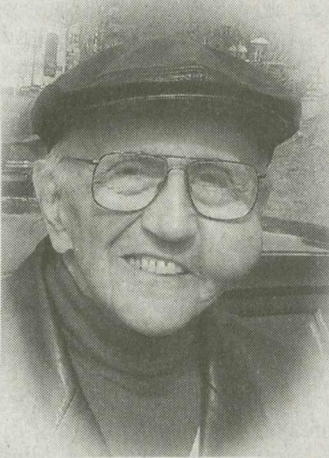

WILMINGTON -- Mr. Anthony J. Ferrara, 85, of Wilmington, died at the Merrimack Valley Hospice House in Haverhill on Sunday, June 10th. Born in Boston, the son of the late Angelina (D'Amore) Ferrara who came to Boston from Monte Fredane, Avelino, Italy, and Vincent A. Ferrara of East Boston, he had lived most of his life in Wilmington.

Mr. Ferrara worked as a cabinet maker, furniture finisher, swimming pool installer, and long shore man before returning to school later in life to earn his GED and then a Bachelors Degree from Northeastern Univeristy, working full time while earning his degree over a period of eight years.

He began his new career as a Family Therapist volunteering at the Middlesex Guidance center.

His successful efforts at the center led to a position charged with establishing a “Therapeutic Gym” which later became Mr. Ferrara’s llegendary “Mind and Body in Harmony”. The new program attracted the interest of many school systems, beginning with Melrose and Stoneham.

The successes that he and his colleagues achieved came to the attention of famed Harvard behaviorist B.F. Skinner who visited the program and addressed the staff, noting Mr. Ferrara’s achievements in his remarks. Later, he was to launch an independent effort, creating his own “Activity Center” to carry on the therapeutic gym concept that he had pioneered.

Mr. Ferrara’s unconventional approach was based on his finding that the two most devastating ways to destroy self-esteem were over-correcting and over-protecting. His approach is outlined in a book that he published, “Beyond Parenting: When Love Gets In The Way.”

Mr. Ferrara loved to work. And he was passionate about singing, dancing, and body building. For years, he was an active member of the Society for Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America. On many occasions, he would break into song with his family and friends.

His love of dancing led him to meeting, and then marrying, Evelyn (Meuse) Ferrara, his wife of 56 years. Both shared a passion for dancing and they served as dance instructors and organizers of dance groups including the Wilmington Dance Party.

In his early years, growing up in the rough and tumble East Boston neighborhood, Mr. Ferrara became a committed body builder. He was proud of his physique and he exercised regularly until a few years ago when his health would no longer permit it. For many years, he could be seen daily at the Marriott Burlington, working out in their exercise facility and holding court with his large circle of friends.

Once married, Mr. Ferrara set out to build a house for his family. Drawing upon his carpentry experience, he built and finished the house that is still the family home in Wilmington. In some recent writing, he described digging trenches and excavating for the septic system by hand to save money. He thrived on hard work.

For many years, Mr. Ferrara contributed a regular column to the Town Crier, entitled The Family Therapist. He was often sought after for advice and many times he would encounter former participants in his program who had been able to move forward and enjoy successful lives as a result of his counseling.

Family, “la famiglia”, was very important to Mr. Ferrara as was his circle of close friends, many of whom accompanied him on his regular visits to Wilmington’s “As Good As It Gets” for his morning breakfast, a habit that lasted until he entered the hospital just a few weeks before his passing.

In addition to his wife, Evelyn, Mr. Ferrara leaves a daughter, Rene’ Lake-Gagliardi and her husband Peter A. Gagliardi of South Royalston, MA; a son, Vincent J. Ferrara and his wife, Dianna (Loubier) Ferrara, of Hooksett, NH; a granddaughter, Angelina (Lake) Sutherland and her husband Todd, of Pepperell, MA; a grandson, Anthony V. Lake and his partner, Jeanette Beaudette, of Nashua, NH; and step-grandchildren Tori, Zach, and Gabe Loubier. In addition, he leaves two great grandsons, Justin Desmarais and Vincent Noah Lake.

He was pre-deceased by his parents, a sister, Rose (Ferrara) Sibelian, and a grandson, Vincent H. Lake, and is survived by a nephew, Kenneth Sibelian and his family of Tigard, Oregon.

Family and friends will gather at the Nichols Funeral Home, Inc., 187 Middlesex Ave. (Rte. 62), Wilmington, on Thursday, June 14th at 11:00 a.m. followed by a Mass of Christian Burial in St. Thomas of Villanova Church, 126 Middlesex Ave., Wilmington at 12:00 noon. Interment Wildwood Cemetery, Wilmington. Visiting hours Wednesday, June 13th from 4-8 p.m. In lieu of flowers donations in Anthony’s memory may be made to Lahey Clinic Cardiac Unit, Development Office, 41 Mall Road, Burlington, MA 01803.

Marguerite H. O’Leary

Probation clerk for the Middlesex District Court

WILMINGTON - Marguerite H. (Gargano) O’Leary, age 79, of Wilmington, a former long-time resident of Woburn, passed away peacefully after a courageous battle with cancer on June 11, 2012, surrounded by her loving family.

Born in East Boston on August 11, 1932, Marguerite was the cherished daughter of Peter and Jenny (Colarusso) Gargano. She grew up in Medford and graduated from Medford High School then went on to Fisher Junior College. Marguerite got married and moved to Woburn, where she was the proud mother of four daughters.

Marguerite was employed as a probation clerk for the Middlesex District Court in Woburn. She worked at the court for many years, making many friends over the years.

After her retirement from the courthouse, Marguerite moved to Port Charlotte, FL. She loved her time in Florida. Marguerite was a real social butterfly and would spend a lot of time with friends, traveling, walking, swimming and dancing.

The most important thing in Marguerite’s life was her family. She was a real inspiration to people who knew her, especially her four daughters and her best friend and sister, Rose. She fought a courageous battle with cancer for over 10 years. Her strength and determination throughout those years really left a mark on those who loved her. She was a wonderful woman. She taught her daughters how to be strong and independent women. She really was the “World’s Best Mother”. The light of her life was her grandson, DJ. She loved spending time with him. Marguerite and her sister, Rose, would take DJ into Boston and passed along their love of Boston and traveling to DJ. Marguerite enjoyed all the years spent living in the same house as DJ.

Marguerite will be loved and forever missed by all who knew her.

Fleury achieves Eagle Scout

Project involved moving the Andover Country Day School

TEWKSBURY/ANDOVER

On Saturday, June 9, Boy Scout and Tewksbury resident Adrien Fleury, a junior at Central Catholic High School, led nearly 20 scouts and assisted teachers and community members as they moved furniture, toys and years of collected memories from the Andover Country Day School from St. Robert Bellarmine Parish in West Andover to its new location at the St. Constantine and Helen's Greek church also in Andover.

The coordination of the relocation is Fleury's Eagle Scout project. The move was a bittersweet one for Fleury and for all of those involved. Fleury attended the pre-school, along with his brother Paul, also a Boy Scout, in the basement of his Parish, St. Roberts. The boys find it sad to see the preschool move to another church however they are happy to know that the school will continue to thrive in its new location. Many scouts from Troop 79, who helped with the move on Saturday, also attended the preschool.

Over the past several weeks scouts repaired and repainted equipment, washed walls and broke apart old bookcases in preparation for the move. According to the ACDS director and Tewksbury resident, Patricia Kozik, "It is great to see so many of our alumni grow into helpful and strong young men who can give back to the school. We are very proud of them."

The Andover Country Day draws about 15% of its students from Tewksbury. Because St. Robert's serves North Tewksbury and West Andover, many young Tewksbury parishioners have attended the Andover Country Day School.

The focus of Boy Scout Troop 79, which is also affiliated with St. Robert's Parish, is to develop leaders by providing skills, training and opportunities to lead.

This past week, fellow Troop 79 Boy Scout, and Tewksbury High School senior, George Kuegler, became an Eagle Scout during a ceremony in which he received commendations from the Massachusetts State House presented by Representative Paul Adams and the Tewksbury Board of Selectmen, presented by Selectman David H. Gay. Kuegler designed and built a bridge on the Tewksbury Cross Country Trail.

Tewksbury Garden Club donated 375 baby Norway Spruce trees to Tewksbury third graders in celebration of Arbor Day this spring. In conjunction with the donation, each classroom had a first, second, and third place winner in a poster contest. The first place winner was awarded a book on nature, donated to the school library in their name. The theme was "If I were a tree, what kind would I be." 18 books were donated to the school libraries, one for each classroom. The program was made possible by a grant from Tewksbury Cultural Council, a local agency, supported by the Massachusetts Cultural Council, a state agency. (courtesy photo)

Ledges at Woburn

David Fionda does his own research, advocacy work

By JIM HAGGERTY

WOBURN - Burlington's Dave Fionda, a former resident of North Woburn, is one of several key figures leading a charge against the development of the 168-unit apartment complex at 1042 Main St., North Woburn at the Woburn-Wilmington-Burlington lines.

The forceful, local advocate against the expanded blasting and other problems at the site has been literally beating the bushes to gain support before the next showdown at the Woburn Board of Appeals on Wednesday, June 20.

His approach is to have a power-point show entitled "Stop the Woburn Quarry", along with some Facebook facts and figures to help his fight against making a quarry out of the site.

The petitioner is the Dolben Company of Woburn, which wants to remove 200,000 cubic yards of rock and fill from the site, along with blasting operations.

Fionda has also appeared at the May meeting before the Board of Appeals citing objections to the enlargement of the plan in recent years. "It's important for the public to know all the facts," he insists, citing everything from the dangers of blasting in a crowded area to objectionable truck traffic and even seismology after-effects.

A mid-April meeting at the Woburn Board of Appeals had a geologist, Richard Groll, stating current sound measurements as measured against a test site, along with some future noise-muffling efforts, would keep the noise level down to what is commonly heard off Main Street. Drilling noise, as well as blasting became another issue at the time.

"It's not just a North Woburn issue but one that affects Wilmington and Burlington," feels Fionda. "I am not against 40B housing but I am against the way this has all evolved."

He cites, for example, the original 80,000 cubic yards to be removed and then to 120,000 yards with the figure now over 200,000 cubic yards "six years later."

Fionda is quick to point out that he was born in this area and still lives not too far away in Burlington. He notes he has only become deeply involved in recent months as the project has changed in character dramatically. "They have made significant changes to the original plan," feels Fionda. "As a kid, I can remember being atop the hill and it had a great panoramic view of Boston and its skyline from there."

Miss Kim Russo's 4th graders pulled with all their might in a tug-o-war contest during the North Street School's end of the year celebration on Monday.

In the process, he insisted in a talk to the Woburn Rotary Club luncheon this week, neither the towns of Burlington or Wilmington were informed when the project changed in scope. "You have two major water supplies in the area," he added, pointing to the nearby Burlington reservoir, the streams leading to the area, the entire aquifer that also affects water in the town of Wilmington and the entire Mystic River Watershed that encompasses the area. Heavy blasting, he insists, will upset the geological make-up the water fields.

"It is smack, dab in the middle of the Mystic River Watershed," he insists, using topographical maps as illustrations. "We have to balance health and safety here."

He cited the four major buildings at the site and the removal of sand and gravel. The area, he said, floods all the time, especially at lower levels on Main Street and the removal of the impervious materials will force more flooding at the lower levels. There will be 75 feet of the hill removed, he pointed out, noting water runoff from the ledges being dangerous to traffic and people in there area.

"There will be more flooding. There will be black ice at a dangerous stretch of Main Street at the Wilmington line."

The stated number of 16,000 truck trips to remove fill will also become an issue as state highway signs in the area already limit tonnage to 25 tons, so trucks will have to double-up in most instances, thereby doubling the number of truck trips in the area.

Noise, he continued, is also going to be a major factor for months and months. "Stone dust," he said, "is a serious concern." He cited problems with "Rock Silica", a known carcinogen.

Fionda urged everyone to check a local Facebook web site: (www.facebook.com/stopt-hewoburn-quarry) for background and updates.

Adopt a Lexus

A cat with an engine that purrs

WILMINGTON - A cat named after a car? Well, it all started with a LOLCR canister. A pet store client jotted down our number and called to say she knows of kittens and a mom living in an old abandoned VW bug. As we went to scope out the situation, leaning over a fence to peer into the car's dusty windows, three adorable kittens stared back, with shy but curious faces. Because this kind family was feeding them, the kittens were not totally freaked over the sight of humans. Once we trapped mom and her kittens, we later found out that Lexus was owned by a family who moved away and left her behind. It seems like they also didn't socialize with her much, because she was very afraid of people.

We worked hard on socializing them and the kittens all found homes. Lexus has been in foster care for over a year and now it's her turn. We are so impressed with her progress.

This girl has an outstanding purr. She has sweet soft emerald green eyes begging for you to love her. With her short luxurious fur, Lexus is a stunning brown tabby with white bib and paws and cute brown little nose, only about two years old. She is fine around cats but prefers a limited amount of contact.

Her energy is low key, playing mostly at night, by herself or with other cats.

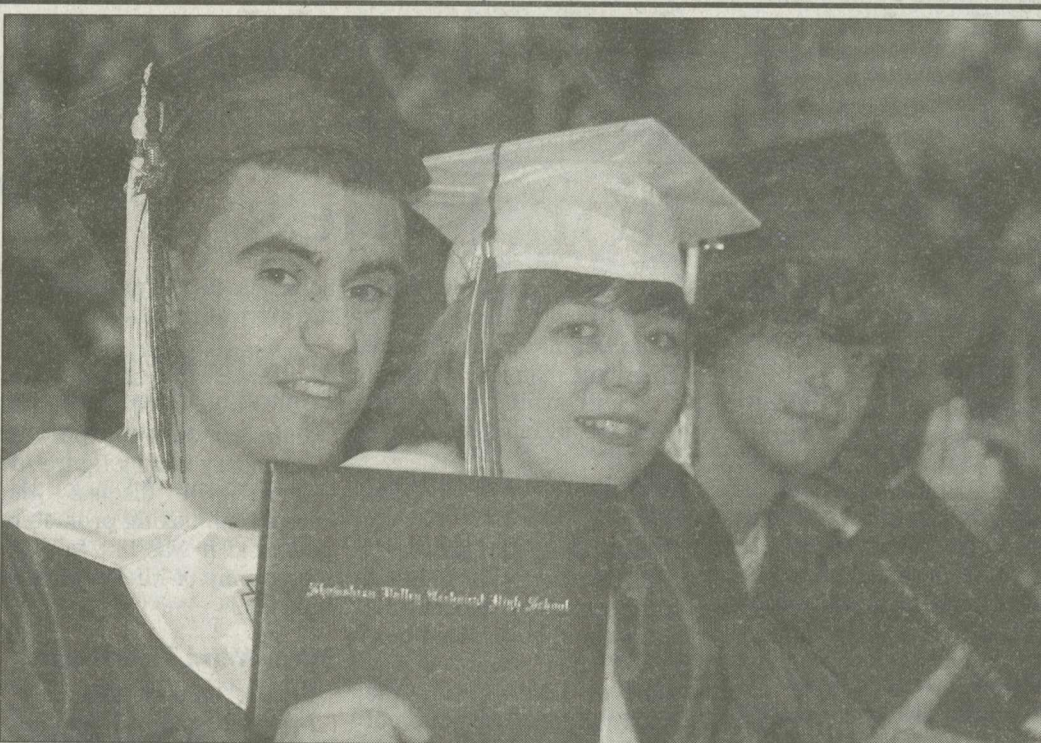

She is fine with the gentle dogs she has met. Lexus can be held and does not squirm to get away from you. She thoroughly enjoys her patting sessions and nose to nose rubs. Her foster mom adores how Lexus will jump right out of her bed when she enters the room, then performs a little dancing routine. With a soft sweet cry, she kneads patiently while awaiting her pets.

She even loves to get belly rubs as well as her paws held and petted. Lexus accepts her manicures and being brushed and is very neat with her litter box manners. Shy until she gets to know you, she would do well in a quiet home. As her personality blossomed we found it fitting to "upgrade" her name to Lexus. This sweet girl is just waiting for her special car ride home.

Wilmington student attends Mass Art All State

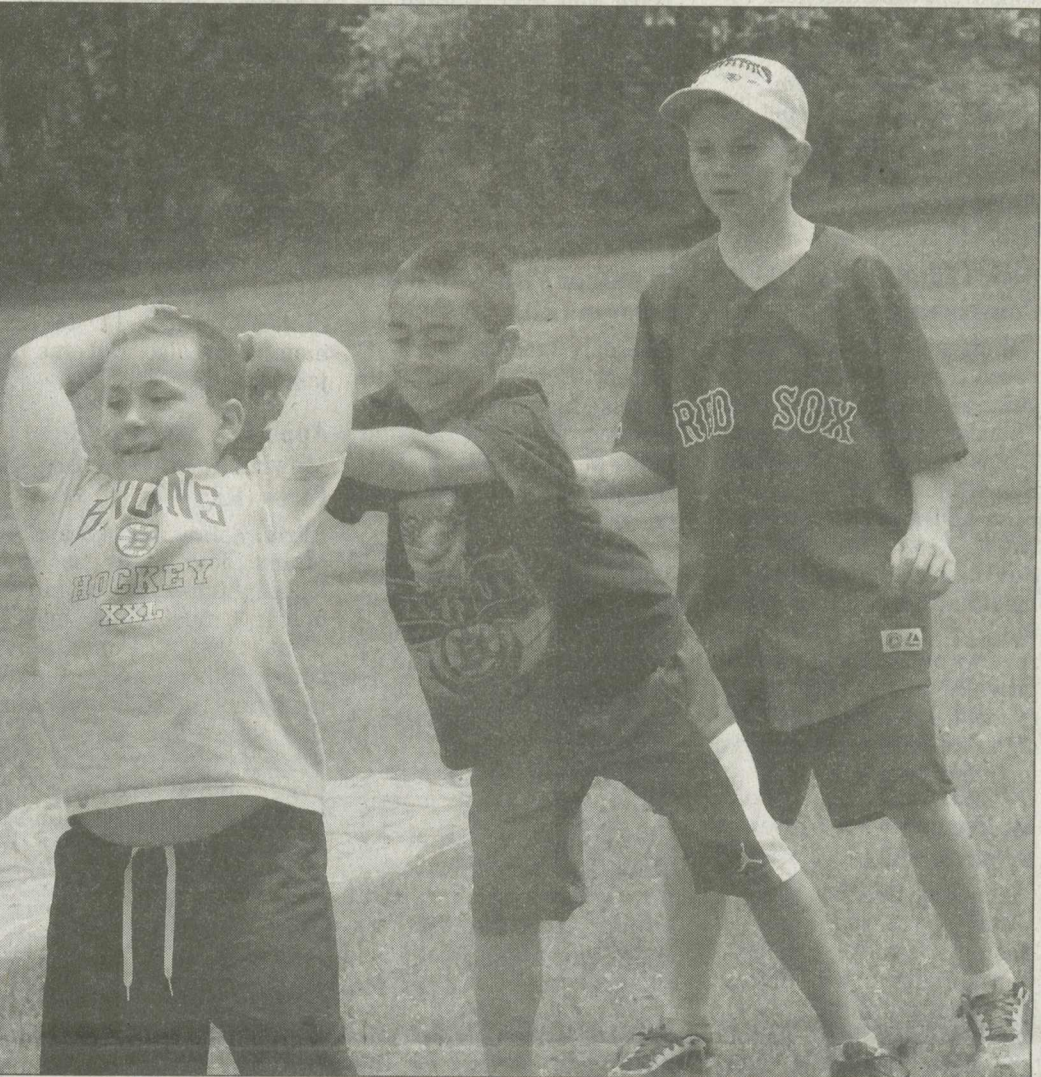

WORCESTER - Last weekend, Victoria Oliveira of Wilmington High School joined 146 Massachusetts high school juniors at the 25th annual Art All State program at Worcester Art Museum. Victoria was invited to participate in the prestigious program, which is organized by the museum and the Massachusetts Art Education Association.

Students, first nominated by their art teachers, then undergo a rigorous application process. "The competition across the state for the 147 available spots is stiff. This year marked one of the most competitive years to date since Art All State's inception in 1987. The group of students we have this year truly represents the very best in Massachusetts," said Gillian Bonazoli, manager of Art All State.

Participants spent the past weekend immersed in workshops, mentored by professional artists who guided them through the museum's galleries and facilitated large studio projects. During their two days, students used limited, non-traditional materials to design and create dynamic and contemporary mixed-media projects, now on display at the museum.

Founded at the Worcester Art Museum, Art All State encourages artistically talented high school juniors to continue on in art beyond high school, supporting and fostering the next generation of emerging young artists.

Bonazoli says, "The majority of students that participate in the program go on to pursue careers in the arts. By investing in our future artists, Art All-State advocates for the arts and sends a loud, clear message that there is a viable and valued place in our communities for artists and art."

Andrew Camelio, Sean Cunningham and Richard Markworth played a relay game of Over/Under during the North Street School's 4th grade celebration on Monday.

"Programs help to maintain or promote reading skills," says Raab, who wants to teach children why reading is important.

Brandy Danner is the Teen librarian who planned a large variety of activities for teenagers from the 6th to the 12th grades. There will be many food-based activities this summer, where teens can learn to prepare healthy snacks and not-so-healthy treats, like ice cream. Teens will also have the opportunity to make a commercial and design book trailers. Danner has tied reading into the summer activities by making 10 Nooks available for rental with the summer reading books already programmed onto them. She also wants to push the online part of the Summer Reading program; all participants can log each book they read a www.readsinma.org/wilmington where each week winners are drawn to receive prizes including Barnes and Noble gift cards, and at the end of the summer, a participant will win a nook.

"I hope [teens] will have a good time," says Danner, "[the library] is still relevant and a fun place to be."

Katie Huffman is the adult librarian whose goal for the Summer Reading program was to keep it simple: encourage adults to read, but without holding as many activities like the children and teens, so that adults can fit reading into their busy schedules. One of the activities for adults includes a brunch where adults can share books that they consider good "beach reads." Adults, of course, can also log their reading online to win prizes.

"We want to give people incentives to read more and share what they read," says Huffman.

Each of the librarians wants to stress residents to participate in the opening and closing ceremonies, which they say will be the biggest attractions of the Summer Reading and are meant for all ages.

These events are made possible by the Friends of Wilmington Memorial Library. Dates and times of the activities can be found in the Town Crier, in library brochures, and online at wilmlibrary.org.

Construction delay could cost taxpayers $3M more

Brock continued to explain that there will be another 10-day grace period for appeals. If the superseding order of conditions is appealed, Brock said there is the potential of going to adjudicatory hearing, a quasi-judicial proceeding that includes written affidavits and cross examinations.

"We would like to avoid that by working with the Town and the appellants to address any issues," Brock said.

Suzanne Sullivan, one of the appellants, made a similar statement via email to the Crier about the walk-through. "We are hopeful the issues can be resolved. As we said at the site walk and I will reiterate here, we wish not to have to go any further with the appeal. We believe that what we are asking for is not unreasonable, and typically required in Order of Conditions. Folks [at Monday's meeting] seemed to agree."

The appeals outline a variety of concerns. According to a recent letter to the editor from George Lingenfelter, one of the Ten Resident Group, some of the issues raised include on-site mitigation, off-site mitigation, the artificial turf field, plans for the Activity and Use Limitation (AUL) area, and the lack of clarity in the Order of Conditions set by the Conservation Commission.

This is the second time residents have appealed part of the high school building project. In February the Town submitted a Notice of Intent (NOI) for only the installation of an artificial turf field on the current football field at the high school. The Town rescinded the turf field NOI and resubmitted that part of the project with the entire site NOI to provide better clarification regarding mitigation and improvement of the riverfront area.

Because the Town decided to submit the artificial turf field as part of the site NOI, construction of the field was pushed back from April to July. The construction of the field will coincide with the planned demolition of the current gymnasium. This schedule is contingent upon the DEP's issuance of a superseding order of conditions and no further appeals.

If the superseding order of conditions is appealed and the project is brought to adjudicatory hearing, Town Counsel said the best-case scenario would push the project schedule back by at least six months.

In light of the potential delays from appeals, project managers and engineers defined the cliché 'time is money' for the community at Monday's meeting. According to estimates that take into account the cost of construction and inflation rates, if the project is pushed back by even a year, it may cost the Town and tax payers close to $3 million more than the currently budgeted price tag.

Michael Bodnar, a member of the Ten Resident Group, said he did not intend to affect the schedule of the project, he is simply concerned about the oil in the AUL area.

"I apologize," Bodnar said. "I am not attempting to throw this project's schedule off kilter. I did not want to stop this project; it will go through. I just wanted someone to look at it one more time."

Chairman of the Board of Selectman and High School Building Committee member Michael Newhouse assured Bodnar and the community that the Town sought the opinions of three separate licensed site professionals (LSP). Each gave similar responses to the plans to demolish the current high school building, leaving the boiler room intact to avoid releasing the contaminated soil, and placing a parking lot over the AUL area.

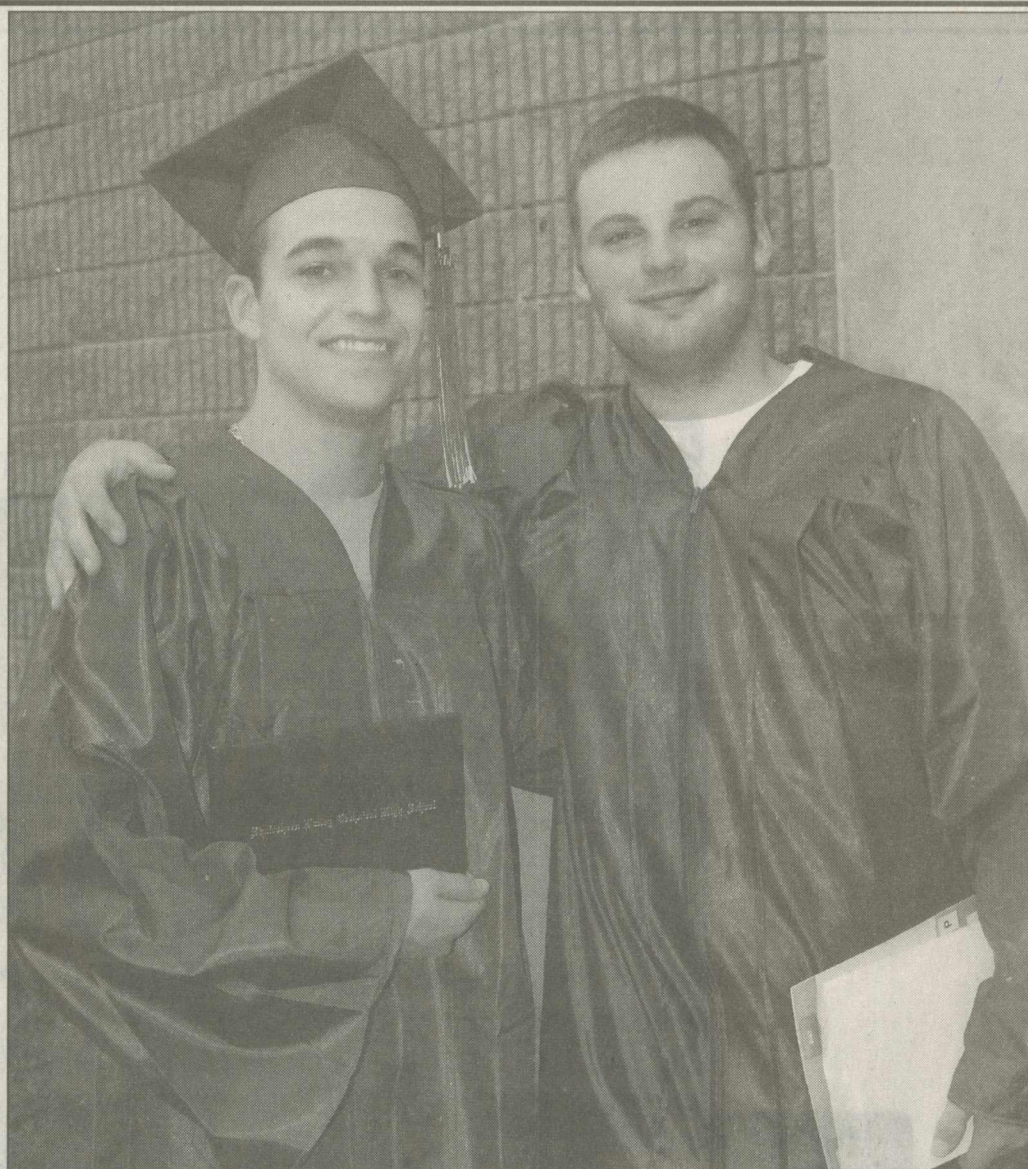

In an email to the Crier, Suzanne Sullivan said, "The effort of some to make this issue about being on board for the high school or against is really a misrepresentation of facts and is an injustice to the people because it is a wetland appeal and has nothing to do with 'for' or 'against'. It is simply about how the project will, may I emphasize will, move forward. It is not complicated. This fear that especially our officials are instilling in the public has resulted in threats and intimidation to the appellants. It is irresponsible and wrong on all fronts. The HST firmly believes the Town could have and still can head off any delays by simply doing the right thing."

Despite his statement of apology and concern for another look, Bodnar refused to say that he would not appeal again if the DEP issues a superseding order of conditions to ensure the AUL is properly enforced.

Carl Sagel said that while he did not appeal this project he did not vote for it at the Special Town Meeting last December. He said that he understood many people may be undecided or "sitting on the fence" about the project, but he expressed his concern that delaying the project any further could cause more harm than good.

"I implore everyone to get on board with this project and move it forward," he said. "The time for fence sitting is over."

Wilmington Sub-Varsity Sports Season Round-Up

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

Much like the Wilmington High Boys Varsity Lacrosse team, wins were hard to come by for much of the season for the junior varsity boys squad. But also much like their varsity counterparts, they showed tremendous improvement throughout the season and showed a lot of promise for the future at both the junior varsity and varsity level.

The JV boys posted a 6-10 record on the season in their first year in the challenging Middlesex League, and as evidenced by their results late in the season, they adapted quite well as the season went on to the increased level of competition.

"Our last two games were very impressive. We showed a lot of improvement," Wildcats coach Dave Sundberg said. "We beat Burlington 2-1 after losing to them earlier in the year in overtime, and lost to Wakefield 5-4 after losing to them earlier in the year 13-2. Those were both fun games to coach and play in. The kids competed played hard and based on the score from earlier in the year showed some real improvement."

Sundberg, who in addition to being the head coach of the JV lacrosse team for the past three seasons, has also coached the freshman girls basketball team at Wilmington High for the past six years, knows all about developing talent for the varsity level. While he had a very young group of players to work with this season, he also feels like he has a group that will someday soon be able to help the Wilmington lacrosse program continue to grow.

"All of these kids were good," Sundberg said. "I'm a believer in team and this is a special group. They were competitive and enjoyed playing lacrosse. This was a very young team for the most part. If they continue to play together stick with it will have a very successful career here at Wilmington High."

Freshmen Baseball

It's impossible to tell what the future holds for the members of the Wilmington High Freshman Baseball team, or how many members of the squad will go on to be starts at the level in years to come.

But one thing we definitely learned this season is that this group of players is resilient, and they will never quit, regardless of the circumstances. With a 1-9 record after 10 games and very little to play for, this young group of Wildcats fought back to win their final six games of the season and finish 7-9 overall, providing plenty of hope for the future of the baseball program at Wilmington High.

Wildcats coach Dennis Ingram, in his second year as coach of the freshman squad was impressed with his team's performance down the stretch. As a Wilmington High graduate and three sport athlete, he knows the commitment it takes to be successful and he feels this group certainly has that commitment.

"I feel strongly that this team has more talent than a 7-9 record suggests," Ingram said. "We did suffer four walk-off losses, and at one point had a 1-9 record. I feel at that point it would have been very easy for this group to just quit on the season. So it definitely speaks to their character that they continued to fight every game and work hard at practice to improve themselves."

In no game was the Wildcats fight and effort more on display than in a late season matchup at Wakefield. The Wildcats had suffered an 11-0 beat down the first time the teams had met, in a game at Wilmington. But this young group of players was not about to let that happen again.

There were a lot of games that stand out to me looking back at the season, but this one stood out in particular," Ingram said. "The first time we played them, they really dominated the whole game. It could have been very easy for us to just show up and expect that they were going to beat us again. But that was the great thing about this team, we had a lot of pride and fight in us. We ended up winning 3-1 with Jake Aoki pitching five innings of one run ball and Zack Abbott getting the six out save."

Aoki (2.51 ERA) and Abbott (two saves) were just two of the pitching stars on the season for the Wildcats, who got great efforts from many other young arms including Joe Scurto who struck out 48 batters in just 24 2/3 innings and had a 2.55 ERA, and Devin Field who struck out 39 batters in 21 2/3 innings with a 3.74 ERA.

Other pitchers for the Wildcats were Chris Sartori, Danny Stein, Joe Galasso, Pat Finn, Mike Capistran and Dylan Masello.

Leading the way offensively for the Wildcats was Stein, who led the team in nearly every offensive category, including 19 hits, seven doubles, a triple and a home run for a .413 batting average and 12 RBI's.

JV Baseball

The Junior Varsity Baseball team at Wilmington High also looks like they will be providing some strong reinforcements for the varsity program in the years to come. With a 9-11 record this season and several standout performances throughout the season, the Wildcats not only improved their individual play in many cases, but also, even more importantly, played and learned to win like a team.

Wildcats coach Anthony Altieri, who is in his ninth season at the helm of the JV program was impressed with what he saw from his team, particularly with the effort they put into each game.

"It was the type of season where we never really got a long winning streak going. It was more win a couple and then lose a couple," Altieri said. "But the best thing about this team was that they gave 110 percent all the time. They gave as much effort as they could all year long."

Making the Wildcats effort on the season even more impressive to Altieri was their ability to compete for the first time against the increased level of competition in the Middlesex League.

"That was a challenge for us this year," Altieri said. "It is a tough league. Every game we needed our best effort. There was never a game where we felt it was going to be an easy one."

Altieri was happy with his team's effort in every game, but there was one contest in particular that he was able to look back on with even more pride than usual, a 1-0 win for the Wildcats over a talented Belmont team at the midway point in the season.

"They were either undefeated or had just one loss at that point and we just played a great game to beat them," Altieri said. "Kevin Keane pitched a great game for the shutout and the whole team just played really well, so that was big for us to beat a very good team like that."

That Keane led the team to victory that day came as no surprise to Altieri, who saw his sophomore pitcher continue to improve as the season went on.

"Kevin was great for us in the second half of the season," Altieri said. "He did an unbelievable job."

Junior Jimmy Stein also did a stellar job on the mound for the Wildcats. At first glance, his record of 1-6 may not be impressive, but his performance in all other areas is a testament to the great season he had.

Stein struck out 60 batters in 50 innings pitched while opponents batted just .219 against him for the year. Stein allowed just 21 earned runs all season in his 50 innings of work for a 2.90

ERA.

"Jimmy did the bulk of our pitching, and while his record didn't show it, he was outstanding for us," Altieri said. "He did not get much defensive support in the games he pitched, but he did a great job."

Offensively the Wildcats were led by sophomore Alexander Pizette, who led the team with a .389 batting average, followed closely by classmate Jimmy Davey who hit a robust .387. Freshman Evan Raffi announced his presence with a .333 batting average.

Altieri is hopeful that his team learned some valuable lessons on baseball fundamentals this season, but more importantly he is hoping they learned how to win at the varsity level.

"We want to prepare them for the varsity level, but we also want them to get used to winning, and realize they are a good team and that it will take a great effort to beat them."

Altieri said. "We are not just working on fundamentals, we are working on winning as well. Those are things they should know for next year."

Other members of the Wildcats were freshman first baseman James Hill, sophomores Ryan Carracino at second base, right fielder Vinnie Poli, right fielder Chris Popa, catcher Jake Humphert, center fielder Jimmy Murphy, first baseman Ryan McEvoy, second baseman Jared Walsh and Adam Cocoluto and junior first baseman Billy O'Connor. Altieri feels that several of his players can contribute at the varsity level over the next couple of seasons, but he knows they must keep working as hard as they did this season to get there.

"I believe some of them definitely have to have a future with the varsity, but there is a lot of work to do," Altieri said. "They need to keep playing during the summer to improve. We try to stress to them that they can't just play for a couple of months and then do nothing for the whole off season and expect to come back and be ready for the varsity level."

JV Softball

If the varsity softball team at Wilmington High is looking for immediate help next year, they need look no further than the talented group of players that worked hard all season long at the junior varsity level, battling through a very difficult schedule to finish with a 10-8 record that provides great hope for the future of the Wilmington softball program.

Fourth year coach Marcia Jones, who had previously coached the freshman program at Wilmington High, has seen her share of quality players rise up through the program, and she feels that several members of this year's group will be ready to take the next step up to the varsity level.

"I can't say that there was one star on the team. The whole team was stars in their own way," Jones said. "Everyone made great plays as well as clutch hitting. If someone was having a bad day then the team would rally around them and help out. They did whatever they could to help the team out. I think most of them have a future at varsity. When they get pulled up to varsity, they will do a great job."

While there may not have been any stars for the Wildcats, several players certainly stood out for their performances during the season. Katherine McKenna and Fallon Soye led the way offensively for the team, with each smacking a home run during the season. Meanwhile Jillian Williams and Heather Benson were outstanding in leading the team in pitching. The Wildcats infield was led by Katherine McKenna, Nicole Potner, Shelby McHugh, Danielle Reynolds and Ashleigh Howland, while the outfield was led by Jacqui Duffy, Kayley Rogers, Bridget Santos, Molly Fanikos, Marisa Russo and the catchers were Fallon Soye, Michaela Ouellette and Katy Goodwin.

While some players obviously had better statistical numbers than others, it was the group as a whole that Jones was most impressed with, as she felt each and every player contributed to the successful season.

"I had a great time with this group of girls. I appreciate all of their hard work and it showed during their games," Jones said. "We had a young team but they learned a lot and tried hard and their record shows their dedication. They are a great bunch and I will miss them."

Jones also wanted to thank a special volunteer who has helped her out.

"I want to thank Lisamarie DiOrto for being my team manager for the last two years," said Jones. "She has been a tremendous help to me and the girls. I have loved having her helping me and I don't know what I am going to do next year with out her. She is going to miss alot by not just me but by the girls as well. I wish her well at Boston College."

Freshmen Softball

The Wilmington High Freshmen Softball team struggled to find the win column this season, picking up just a pair of wins, but they closed the season strong with a 13-1 win over Burlington in their season finale.

First year coach Ray Robinson was still pleased with his team's effort despite their record.

"Our season was very challenging," Robinson said. "Most of our kids had little or no experience with softball and our record reflected that, but the kids tried very hard and showed a marked improvement at the end of the season."

Barry finishes eighth

Last Wednesday and Thursday, several Wilmington High School athletes participated in the annual Track-and-Field Decathlon Meet held at Burlington High School. Pat Barry finished eighth overall to lead the way. Just under 100 athletes from the Northern part of the state competed in this meet.

"Pat is a very well rounded athlete and he truly stepped up his game for this competition," said Wildcat head coach Mike Kinney.

Barry's best performance came in the triple jump (42-9), while he was also very impressive in the 1,500 meter run (4:32), javelin (141-0), 110 meter hurdles (17.2), high jump (5-7) and the 400 (54.0).

Also competing for Wilmington were Colin Chase, who finished 43rd, Peter Warren who was 56th, as well as Adam Maienza and Erik Alatalo.

"Overall, the Decathlon Meet went very well for the boys," said Kinney. "It can be a grueling event, and the element of endurance is important. We had a lot of fun and the kids performed great. Pat's performance was awesome."

Thirteen Youth Soccer teams advance to playoffs

As of press time 13 teams from the Wilmington Youth Soccer Association (WYSA) Travel Program had advanced to the Middlesex League playoffs.

Also known as the "Commissioner's Cup," this tournament recognizes excellence in play amongst the close to twenty town programs across the Middlesex League, and allows for select teams across all U10 through U18 age groups of boys and girls to play for bragging rights as to the best team within each age group and division within the Middlesex League.

In addition, the Commissioner's Cup provides an opportunity for U12 and above aged teams to play in the state's Massachusetts Tournament of Champions, being held later this month.

This year, the Commissioner's Cup will be held in Woburn at the Joyce Fields complex, and at least 13 Wilmington teams for both boys and girls in the U9-U16 age groups will be participating. The playoffs begin on Saturday, June 16th, concluding by end of day Sunday the 17th.

"We are happy and excited for the kids on our teams participating in the Commissioner's Cup," said Jon Snider, the WYSA Town and Travel Coordinator. "They earned this reward, and should be commended for their efforts this past season, as well as for their enjoyment of the 'beautiful game.' We believe their participation in the League's tournament and playoffs reflects well upon our program and its goals to provide a positive growth and learning experience for kids of all ages and abilities in the sport of Soccer, while promoting team play and good sportsmanship. WYSA would also like to recognize the coaches of these teams participating in the Cup, for their patience, time and dedication to our program."

Information on the Wilmington teams participating in the Commissioner's Cup can be found on the Wilmington Youth Soccer Association website, at www.wilmingtonyouthsoccer.org.

Remembering Mickey Sullivan

By RICK COOKE
Sports Correspondent

The door to Mickey Sullivan's Lowell Catholic office was open. That door was always open, through two stints as Tewksbury High School's Athletic Director and then as one of the town's first major condominium movers and shakers. When we last talked, he was giving me the grand tour of the spectacular new gymnasium at Lowell Catholic High School. Sullivan was then actively giving a great option to many student-athletes throughout the Merrimack Valley.

The new place had all the bells and whistles that some local facilities were lacking, and Mickey was like a proud papa, showcasing the public address system and the gleaming floor of the new basketball gymnasium. When Mickey Sullivan wanted to talk, he would do much more than simply give you the time of day. It was often an exercise in political gamesmanship.

For Sullivan, it became an art form.

When people knew that Mickey was in a battle for his life after being diagnosed with cancer, it was decided that this new gymnasium at Lowell Catholic should be named in his honor. Sullivan was happy and humbled. Ultimately, this occasion had nothing to do with politics. It was all about doing the right thing—a concept that drove Sullivan for many years in both the public and private sectors.

For Mickey, his last gig as the Lowell Catholic High School Athletic Director was a culmination, not a coronation. He was always interested in talking up that next big project. When Sullivan died last week, people were remembering just how this guy got things done for them in a very up-close and personal way.

Mickey was always searching for that next big challenge, making the right phone calls and connections to get things done. Then he would call me or send out a quick press release. I would show up unannounced at his Tewksbury office with a notebook full of questions.

More often than not, Sullivan would make time for me. Sometimes he would not—and that open door would figuratively get slammed in my face. But that was Mickey. He had more important business to tend to—and he really didn't care if he stepped on a few big toes—or even a little toe like mine—along the way. We had our arguments after I was rarely told to hit the road. The door would always swing back open, and his secretary Mary Maguire would be there to let Mickey know that the annoying guy from the Town Crier wanted to talk again.

When Sullivan came up with the idea for the TMHS Athletic Hall of Fame, he gracefully asked me if I would be on the nominating committee. I gladly packed up my notebook full of questions and took things to another level. Sullivan had thought enough of me to make me part of Tewksbury High School's decision-making process. At that time, his door was more than just open. It was welcoming in a very special way.

"I remember Mickey as a fun-loving guy who enjoyed life," said Maguire last week. "He loved being the athletic director of the Tewksbury Public Schools—and being a math teacher. He took both those jobs very seriously. If you had a job to get done, Mickey was your go-to man. He would get it done. He loved doing that. I remember that he was very involved in the Merrimack Valley Conference trying to keep that league together."

Sullivan was a basketball player, coach, math teacher, referee, athletic director, board member, developer and a friend to many. He became part of the greatest era in Tewksbury High School basketball history, coaching the freshmen, and then a varsity team led by TMHS Hall of Famer Chris Prince. Chris would go on to set the career scoring record at the school, a mark that was later broken by John Hurley, another young man who found himself being nurtured by Sullivan in the classroom and on the basketball court. Tony Romano was the head coach of a TMHS varsity team that had set records and dominated the MVC before Sullivan. Romano would go on to work at Lowell Catholic along with former TMHS coach Jock Patterson.

Many years earlier, the trio helped Tewksbury kids improve their basketball skills. Sullivan was getting the job done, helping a program improve with hard work and a healthy dose of motivation. Players would play basketball outside in the heat of the summer at the new Livingston Street Courts. Sullivan would organize and referee some of the games. Kids would towel-off and head for home, knowing that some adults thought enough of them to postpone that summer vacation one more time.

"I remember that he worked hard with Jock Patterson to get those Saturday and Sunday summer leagues started at Livingston Street," says Romano. "We formed a nice little program, and the kids improved their basketball skills."

Many years later, Sullivan hired Patterson as an assistant football coach under Tim Walsh, who had his athletic baptism in Tewksbury years ago as the high school's starting quarterback. Sullivan always maintained his Tewksbury connections, and those ties to the town were always linked to the name Sullivan. Barry Sheehan was welcomed into the Sullivan 'family' right out of high school.

"I knew Mickey in many different capacities, as athletic director in Tewksbury and Lowell Catholic, a developer and a member at Long Meadow (Country Club) and as part of a great Tewksbury family," recalled Sheehan via email last week. "I will never forget Mickey as a member of the 'Hawks'—along with Larry Kelleher, Doug Anderson and Skip Roper. They formed premier softball and basketball teams in various Tewksbury leagues, and they asked me to play for them when I was just a kid out of high school. They taught me the ropes."

Helping friends and family cope with tough times became a large part of Sullivan's various jobs over the years. He really learned what 'Tewksbury tough' was all about during the first of his two stints as the TMHS' athletic director.

Sullivan's "how are you today?" approach worked wonders for many Tewksbury families. You can count Eleanor Riddle as one of the charter members of the Mickey Sullivan Fan Club.

"I'll never forget Mickey and the things that he did for our family," said Riddle. "We loved him. He was a great person. When my son Mark broke his neck playing football for the high school in 1979, Mickey called every day. And when my son Luke died, I remember that Mickey called me from the airport. We were always involved with him, even when he went to Lowell Catholic. There were so many things that Mickey did for people that you never heard about."

There were some of those 'things' that left a mark on the early stages of a young student-athlete's life. Riddle remembers when one of her sons thought that anything having to do with math was not so simple.

"My son Matthew always told me that Mickey was the best math teacher that he ever had in high school. Matthew just wasn't understanding math with a substitute teacher. He said that he wasn't getting it. Mickey came into the room and told him—'Mathew, sit down you are going to get it'—and Matthew never forgot that."

John Hurley would never forget the man who took the time to make sure that a big-for-his-age and rather shy kid got better at basketball. Hurley is a man now facing many life-challenges within his own family. Late last week, Hurley still took the time to remember Mickey Sullivan.

"I have so many memories about Mickey. I remember my first day in the seventh grade at the middle school," says Hurley. "I was approached by Mickey in the hallway and he immediately informed me that I was going to play basketball. I didn't even know who he was, but he certainly caught my attention that day."

Seventh graders were not allowed to play freshman basketball at the time, but Mickey went to bat for me—and my basketball career started as a seventh grader. He played a very large part in my life during high school, not only as a coach, but as a teacher and a friend. He taught me everything that I wanted to learn about rebounding. I promised him that I wouldn't give away any of his basketball 'secrets'. I have so many good memories of Mickey. He will be missed."

Hurley, one of the all-time rebounding and scoring leaders in the Tewksbury High School basketball program, wanted to spell-out what he thought would be a fitting epitaph for a guy who 'got things done' in Tewksbury, and finally in Lowell.

"Mickey, I want to thank you as a coach, a teacher and most importantly—a friend. The dedication, time and effort that you gave me during my school years will always be remembered."

Youth Lacrosse

U15 Red

Waltham 9, Tewksbury 3

In the first round of the Patriot Cup Playoffs, the Tewksbury Boys U15 Red Lacrosse team was paired against the same team, Waltham U15 Red, that they beat convincingly last week.

This week was a different story and Waltham dominated from the start. Missing key players, losing players to injuries and penalties, minimal offense was put together and Tewksbury found themselves playing catch up all game. Kyle Spiller began in net but had to leave the game due to an injury after stopping a hard shot from a Waltham attacker. Nathan Dooley took over and held firm despite a strong dominating push by Waltham against Tewksbury's defensive unit of JP Mooney, Matty McLaughlin and Nick Georgopoulos. Assisted by David Scarpa, Billy Tamboli got Tewksbury on the board, and Tyler Harvey assisted on a Nick Diminico goal.

The game was still close through the first half and well within reach of a win. Waltham came out firing all weapons in the second half and took a commanding lead. Spiller returned from his first quarter injury at Attack and was able to put another point on the Redmen side, after he was found by Luc Surette and Ryan Flynn.

Shriner's Football Game

This Friday night, three local football players will participate in the annual Shriner's Classic Football game which will be played at Gillette Stadium beginning at 7:00 pm. ## Reading Municipal Light Department Commissioner resigns following Renewable Energy Certificate vote

By PAUL FEELY

There have been several major developments in Reading over the last few weeks regarding the Reading Municipal Light Department (RMLD) and a recent decision regarding how the local utility will handle Renewable Energy Certificates (RECs) - including the resignation of a local Light Commissioner.

This summary recaps the events of the last few weeks for anyone living outside the 01867 zip code. RMLD provides electricity for the communities of Reading, Lynnfield, North Reading and Wilmington.

On May 30, the RMLD's Board of Commissioners voted to retire 60% and sell 40% of the Renewable Energy Certificates (RECs) from the output of the Swift River Hydroelectric facilities they have entitlement to in Massachusetts.

The RMLD has been discussing the issue of the disposition of these RECs for the last six months.

RECs certify that energy is produced by a renewable energy generator (wind, solar, water, bio mass, etc.) and can be retired or sold by their owner. Subject to a Renewable Portfolio Standard (RPS) under Massachusetts Law, Investor Owned Utilities (IOUs) such as NSTAR, National Grid and Western Massachusetts Electric are required to purchase or acquire RECs as a percentage of their annual energy sales.

The RPS does not apply to municipal utilities, therefore, the RMLD can sell their RECs to the REC market or choose to retire them.

As a result of the RMLD Board vote to sell 40% of the RECs, RMLD officials estimated the utility could receive a return in excess of $300,000.

The other 60% of the RECs being retired represent about 1.6% of the RMLD's annual energy sales.

Chairman of the RMLD Board of Commissioners Philip Pacino said, "I am pleased with the RMLD Board's decision to both sell a portion of the RECs and retire the remainder of the RECs. This vote gives the RMLD Board more time to create a Renewable Energy Policy that will guide the RMLD in future purchases of renewable energy."

Pacino added, "The Commission also voted to continue discussion on a Renewable Energy Policy that will cover all aspects from how much renewable energy should be in the power portfolio to what to do about the RECs."

RMLD General Manager Vinnie Cameron said, "I think the action of the RMLD Board shows our customers that we are sensitive to their financial interests and also to the environmental responsibility we have as an electric utility."

Cameron went on to say, "I believe commentary from elected officials within the service territory regarding the REC issue, helped guide us in this direction."

On June 1, RMLD sold $344,470 worth of Class 1 Connecticut RECs, representing 7,030 MWh of renewable-energy-generated electricity, as instructed by the RMLD Board of Commissioners at their May 30 Board meeting.

After paying a 1% broker commission, RMLD will receive $341,025 from EDF (Electricite De France) Trading. The sale was done at the direction of the RMLD Board of Commissioners, who voted 3-2 to sell 40% of the RECs and retire the remaining 60%. The retired RECs have an estimated worth of less than $3,000.

RMLD Board Chairman Pacino stated, "I am pleased to see that the real value of the sold RECs exceeded what the estimated value was. The value received goes into the fuel charge fund and will benefit all the RMLD ratepayers. I further look forward to the next step in this process - to develop a renewable energy policy that will give RMLD direction with respect to the amount of renewable energy in the RMLD's power supply portfolio and how to handle the RECs."

GM Cameron added, "These actions represent the culmination of several months of discussion by the RMLD Board of Commissioners and Citizens Advisory Board on the optimal treatment of RECs to benefit ratepayers and at the same time respect environmental concerns."

In the wake of the vote to sell a portion of the RECs, a Reading Municipal Light Department Commissioner, who was re-elected in March, resigned.

Commissioner Mary Ellen O'Neill resigned from the RMLD Board of Commissioners, citing 'the necessity to reduce her outside commitments'.

O'Neill was re-elected to the board in March. Cameron said, "We thank Mary Ellen for her commitment to RMLD and industry-wide issues and for her tireless efforts in bringing conservation and environmental concerns to the forefront during her tenure on the Board."

Pacino said, "Mary Ellen brought her views of diversity to the Commission and was an asset to our Board. We will RMLD to S-4

Movie Reviews

by Paul Feely

"PROMETHEUS" A GREAT FILM

"PROMETHEUS" IS THE SCI-FI TALE that begins with archeologists discovering cave paintings that suggest life on earth was generated by alien beings who left a map to their planet. The movie tells of an expedition to reach this planet.

"PROMETHEUS"
GRADE: ***

In 1979, Sir Ridley Scott burst on to the Hollywood scene with a little movie called "Alien", shocking audiences with exploding chests and tense, scary scenes.

Scott left the science fiction genre behind after making 'Blade Runner', and went on to film epics like "Gladiator" and "Black Hawk Down." Now Scott has returned to sci-fi with the new film, "Prometheus," and his return was worth the wait.

The movie is not quite a prequel and not quite a reboot of "Alien," but absolutely exists within the same universe - ties which anyone familiar with "Alien" will recognize.

The story begins in the late 21st Century as archeologists Elizabeth Shaw (Noomi Rapace) and Charlie Holloway (Logan Marshall-Green) discover a series of cave paintings that suggest life on earth was generated by alien beings who left us a map to their planet in a galaxy far away.

An expedition to the planet funded by multi-billionaire Peter Weyland (Guy Pearce), who provides Shaw and Holloway with an exploratory team headed by Meredith Vickers (Charlize Theron) and his greatest invention, David the android (brilliantly played by Michael Fassbender).

The journey to the outer reaches of the universe does not go well.

The script, created by "Lost" showrunner Damon Lindelof and his writing partner Jon Spaihts, goes to great lengths to take mirror events in the original "Alien" while simultaneously reminding us that this is an original tale, and a stand-alone film.

Where the goal of "Alien" was to scare you; "Prometheus" seems to have greater ambitions, along with making you jump out of your seat.

"Prometheus" is a great piece of sci-fi filmmaking that uses the genre to raise some deep questions about the nature of humanity and religion (was Jesus an alien?), all while being tense, gruesome and visually stunning.

And even though Scott has made his film deep and epic in nature, he shows he can still pull off uncomfortable, white-knuckle filmmaking like a scene featuring an impromptu C-section that stays with you long after you leave the theater.

"Prometheus" doesn't measure up to the original "Alien," but that's likely because Scott doesn't even try to. Why compare yourself to your own work, when you can instead concentrate strictly on making another great film.

"SNOW WHITE AND THE HUNTSMAN"
GRADE: **

"Snow White and the Huntsman" is stunning visually, but somber overall, mirroring the mood the queen casts over her kingdom.

In this reimagining of the classic tale of Snow White, a beautiful young princess is imprisoned after the forever-young Ravenna (Charlize Theron) seduces, marries, and then murders the king (Cary Elwes).

When the magic mirror informs the queen that the Fairest of Them All is now Snow White, who has come of age (Kristen Stewart), Ravenna sends her brother to kill the princess, but the girl manages to escape into the Dark Forest. Ravenna angrily summons a huntsman (Chris Hemsworth) to capture Snow White - but at the last moment, he joins forces with her to evade the queen's guards. The two embark on a journey that eventually leads her to her beloved childhood friend, the duke's brave son, William (Sam Claflin), and seven fierce dwarfs - all of whom are ready to take up arms against the queen.

The cinematography is lush, and the landscapes - especially the fantastically creepy Dark Forest - are memorable. And like Tim Burton's finest, this is a film where costume plays a significant role.

Academy Award-winning costume designer Colleen

Atwood's creations are amazing, especially Ravenna's elaborate gowns, which range from a royal wedding dress to a feathery black frock made up of crows. Even the seven dwarfs (all of whom are played by famous English character actors like Ian McShane, Ray Stevenson, Nick Frost, and Bob Hoskins) are outfitted in memorable gear.

Theron isn't just beautiful; she's a gifted actress capable of eliciting fear or desire just as easily. A former model, she can say a great deal with just the straightening of her back or an icy scowl.

Stewart pulls off the pure and fair of heart Snow White quite well. As for Hemsworth, he was born to play epic heroes (see Thor). But while the movie is well acted and a marvel for the eyes, it's also overlong and delves into one too many subplots that aren't properly resolved.

One of the most central, obviously, is whether Snow White's destined love is her lifelong friend William or the huntsman. It's refreshing that the romance isn't the movie's central preoccupation, but by the end it's clear that there would need to be a sequel just to figure out who's to be her man - not to mention address how a leader can heal a land so broken by years of ruin.

Parents should know that Snow White and the Huntsman isn't the sweet and colorful fairy tale made by Disney - this is a very dark, violent, moody story with a lot of death and mature themes. Theron's queen is more than evil, she's sadistic and vain and will kill or torture anyone in order to keep her magically eternal youth and beauty. The body count is quite high for a fairy tale.

IN PROGRESS IN WINCHESTER

"The Education Facilities Planning and Building Committee (EFPBC) has hosted a discussion on the high school feasibility study, and the public was invited to listen to the project overview review.

So far, notes the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle," there have been 27 program meetings over four and a half days, a traffic study in progress, a topographical survey in progress, and an alternate site analysis in progress. A geotechnical analysis and existing facility analysis is scheduled for the last day of school.

"The options for the high school consist of renovating the current school, if feasible, or building a new school somewhere (either in the place of the current one or at an alternate location)," notes the "Chronicle."

"Should the town/Massachusetts School Building Authority (MSBA) decide to move the school's location, several sites have been scouted..."

They include: Mystic River Reservation; Winchester Park Department Land (extension of Brooks Property); Leonard Field; Mullen Field Westside Fields; Sunset Road Site/Kraft General Foods; Manchester Fields/McCall Junior High School; Parkhurst School and Mount Pisgah; Lynch School; Wright-Locke Farm; and Skillings Field.

"As the town moves forward, (Bob) Deering outlined several goals the EFPBC had for either renovating the old school or building a new one..."

Those include committee, process, education, community, building, and site/construction goals.

The EFPBC will hold meetings on June 13 and September 12 with a goal of October 10 to submit the preliminary design program to the MSBA. As with the Vinson-Owen School, the MSBA will have the final say in the design if the town wants them to pay for a portion of the project. Chairman Jim Johnson believes the MSBA will fund 38 percent of the project, slightly less than they funded the Vinson-Owen School.

The MSBA next meets in January, after which the town will have 120 days to secure funding once the MSBA approves the final design.

WAYS AND MEANS IN BURLINGTON

"Town Meeting voted ... to allocate $10,000 to help defray costs for the July 4 parade and related activities," notes the Burlington edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The article was originally proposed at $5,000, the same amount which was approved last year, but Precinct 5 Rep. Patricia Angelo offered an amendment to double the amount.

"The funding from the town supplements the fund-raising efforts of the Burlington Breakfast Rotary Club, which has been organizing the event since it was revived in 2007.

"Angelo said last year, with the town providing $5,000, the club was barely able to cover expenses. She noted that many residents attend the parade and other activities and that the event keeps getting bigger.

"Ray Graber of the Breakfast Rotary Club said the group's fund-raising probably covers 50 to 60 percent of the costs.

"In addition to the morning parade, there are activities, food, and refreshments on the Town Common afterwards.

"The amendment was passed and the article, amended to $10,000, was then approved.

"For many years, the town held a parade and conducted other activities on Independence Day, but there was hiatus in 1999 due to a series of events related to the town's Bicentennial celebration. The tradition was not revived until 2007 when the Breakfast Rotary Club organized the event.

"Last year was the first time the town contributed financially to the event since it resumed..."

On another note, Town Administrator Robert Mercier, who is retiring as of June 15, thanked the representatives at the first session of the annual meeting, telling them that they would be missed.

•MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA:

Name the Angels pitcher who in 2008 set the record for most saves in a single season.

Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

•Three members of the Stonehill College women's cross country and track & field teams have been named to the Capital One Academic All-District I Women's Track/Cross Country Team as selected by the NCAA Division II College Sports Information Directors of America (CoSIDA) members from the East Region.

Seniors Jill Alves (Whitman, Mass./Whitman-Hanson) and Maura Ferrarini (Springfield, Mass./Cathedral) have earned their second-career selections to an All-District Team while JUNIOR CAROLINE MCBRIDE (NORTH READING, MASS./NORTH READING) collects her first-career honors.

All three student-athletes will now advance to the Capital One Academic All-America Team ballot where first, second and third team All-America honorees will be selected later this month.

Since 2002-03, the Skyhawks have had five student-athletes recognized at the All-District level including Alves and Ferrarini's second team accolades last season. Along with Alves and Ferrarini, junior Erin Carmone (Riverside, R.I./East Providence) received a first team selection in 2010-11 while All-American Dana DeIngenis '07 (Cranston, R.I.) earned second team honors in 2006-07 and Dianna Chivakos '05 (South Hamilton, Mass.) was named to the second team in 2004-05.

Alves, the two-time Northeast-10 Conference (NE-10) defending champion in the 1,000-meter run (indoors), boasts a 3.46 cumulative grade point average as a psychology major at the College. During the cross country season, Alves earned NE-10 Academic All-Conference accolades and USTFCCCA All-Academic honors. Alves ran a season-best time of 18:34.85 (5-kilometers) at the conference championships to place 15th overall and earn a spot on the NE-10 All-Conference third team.

A USTFCCCA All-East Region selection four times in cross country, Alves is also a member of three school record relay performances including the distance medley (indoors), 4x400-meter and 4x800-meter relays (both outdoors). Alves holds one individual school record in the 1,000-meter run which she set on February 27, 2010 at the New England Championships with a time of 2:56.24. Alves finished eighth overall to earn All-New England honors with her performance.

Alves has been a consistent member of both the NE-10 Commissioner's and Athletic Director's Honor Rolls at Stonehill over her four-year career, was named the NE-10 Rookie of the Year in cross country in 2008 and has appeared on a NE-10 All-Conference team in every season (cross country).

Ferrarini compiled the highest cumulative grade point average out of all three honorees with a 3.77 GPA while majoring in chemistry. Ferrarini earned the NE-10 Sport Excellence Award this past season in cross country after running a career-best time of 18:12.58 (5-kilometers) for third place overall and a spot on the NE-10 All-Conference first team. Ferrarini backed up that performance with another career-best effort at the NCAA Division II East Regionals running a time of 23:12.0 on the six-kilometer layout for eighth place overall.

During the track & field season, Ferrarini provisionally qualified for the NCAA Division II Championships (indoors) in the one-mile run posting a time of 4:59.12 to finish 13th overall at the New England Championships. Ferrarini also joined Alves and teammates Maria Curit (Biddeford, Maine/Biddeford) and Sarah Wilson (West Suffield, Conn./Suffield) on the school record and NCAA provisionally qualifying distance medley relay team at the Boston University (BU) Valentine Invitational. The quartet ran a time of 12:03.47 to rank eighth overall out of 29 teams.

McBride, who earns her first-career All-District selection, put together the second highest cumulative grade point average on the team with a 3.51 GPA as an American History major while minoring in journalism. In the cross country season, McBride earned NE-10 All-Conference third team honors by finishing 20th overall at the conference championships.

McBride shined in both track & field seasons placing second overall in the 10,000-meter run at the indoor conference championships while also earning USTFCCCA All-East Region honors in the 5,000-meter run. In the outdoor season, McBride successfully defended her title in the 10,000-meter run with a meet record time of 38:29.88. McBride also earned All-New England honors in the 10,000-meter run with a second place finish in 37:31.77, a school record performance.

All three runners were instrumental for the Skyhawks in earning their third-straight NE-10 Championship and third-straight NCAA Division II East-Regional title in cross country. Stonehill also went on to finish second overall at the NE-10 Indoor Championships and third in the outdoor conference championships due in large part to Alves, Ferrarini and McBride's contributions.

CoSIDA, which began its recognition of NCAA scholar-athletes in the 1950's, has honored more than 15,000 deserving athletes across all divisions in 12 sports. To be eligible, a student-athlete must be a starter or key reserve, maintain a cumulative grade point average of 3.30 on a scale of 4.00, have reached sophomore athletic and academic standings at his/her current institution and be nominated by his/her sports information director.

•Need some help with the trivia question? His initials are F.R.

•UMASS LOWELL SOPHOMORE RACHEL MCCARTHY (READING, MASS.) has been selected to join USA Field Hockey's New England High Performance Training Center. McCarthy is one of the first Division II players to be named to one of USA's High Performance Training Centers.

USA Field Hockey High Performance Centers are aimed to identify and train the country's elite athletes who hold a potential future with the National Team. These centers allow the athletes to train close to home, while offering comprehensive training, skill enhancement sessions and premier level competition.

"We extremely proud of Rachel for this amazing accomplishment," said head coach Shannon Hlebichuk. "This is a fantastic opportunity for her to train and compete with the best field hockey players in New England. These training sessions will not only help to improve her game, but the skills and knowledge she will bring back will help our team as a whole."

The New England squad will be coached by Ainslee Lamb of Boston College. Lamb has posted an 86-51 record over seven seasons at the helm of the Eagles. The training sessions will take place on the campuses of Boston College, Harvard and Providence College.

In 2011, McCarthy was named a Longstreth/National Field Hockey Coaches Association Division II Second Team All-American and Synapse Sports' First Team All-American. She led the Northeast-10 Conference with 56 points and 18 assists, while ranking second with 19 goals.

Through her first two seasons, McCarthy has totaled 88 points in 47 career matches and played in back-to-back National Championship games, including a perfect 24-0 campaign in 2010 to earn the program's second-ever NCAA Championship.

RMLD from S-1

miss her."

Since she was first elected to the Board in 2006, O'Neill had served as chairperson for several years and was a member of many subcommittees.

In a short, two sentence email sent Thursday at 10 a.m. to Cameron, Pacino, Reading Town Manager Peter Hechenbleikner and Reading Town Clerk Laura Gemme, O'Neill wrote, "I am submitting my resignation from the RMLD Board of Commissioners effective immediately. Pressing personal and family matters necessitate my reducing my outside commitments for the time being."

The following week, O'Neill sent in a letter to the Reading Daily Times Chronicle, directed at the community, ratepayers and supporters. The following is the text of that letter:

"Dear Voters, I am sorry to disappoint the many people who voted for me in the March local election with my recent resignation from the RMLD Board of Commissioners.

While I wish in hindsight that I had acted a bit more slowly and more graciously, I feel that it was a good decision for my family and for me.

Some recent events have created a great deal of personal strain. Since the end of April I've known that it was becoming increasingly difficult to give my full attention and energy to all of my activities. My responsibilities to my family, for the time being, must come first.

Without a doubt, the decision of the RMLD Board to sell close to 100% of the value of the RECs was painful to me, but it was not the deciding factor.

My seven years of volunteer work with the RMLD, with the Citizens' Advisory Board and then the Board of Commissioners, has been interesting and rewarding. I applaud the RMLD's continued success with stellar reliability, excellent rates, and an innovative energy efficiency and conservation program.

Many thanks again to the voters of Reading, Mary Ellen O'Neill"

According to Reading town bylaws, RMLD management and the Reading Board of Selectmen will work jointly to appoint a successor.

With this resignation, there will be three seats to fill during the 2013 Reading town election - two will be the expiring three-year terms held by current Commissioners Phil Pacino and Gina Snyder, and one two-year term to fill the remaining years of former Commissioner O'Neill's term.

Only residents of Reading can elect a Light Board Commissioner, even though the utility serves several surrounding communities.

Following O'Neill's resignation, Reading Town Manager Peter Hechenbleikner sent out a memo detailing the process to fill the seat until the next local election.

Autism rates rising ... but why?

In early 2012, the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention issued findings from a study that found 1 in 88 children is now diagnosed with autism spectrum disorder by the age of eight. This is a 23 percent increase in ASD diagnoses in just two years. What troubles doctors is that the rate has risen far above the 2006 estimate of 1 in 110.

The National Institute of Neurological Disorders and Stroke says that ASD includes a range of complex neurodevelopmental disorders, characterized by social impairment, communication difficulties, and restricted, repetitive, and stereotyped patterns of behavior. Children with ASD can have difficulties learning what are typically simple lessons for other children. Although ASD varies in severity, the common thread is that it occurs in all ethnic groups and affects every age. Males are four times more likely to have ASD than females.

Doctors do not understand why autism rates have risen so profoundly. Some believe that a broader definition of autism is fueling these growing numbers. Diagnostic criteria has changed, and ASD is now encompassing conditions that weren't first included under the autism banner. Currently, ASD is classified into the following subsets.

Pervasive developmental disorders (not otherwise specified, or PDD-NOS): These are a large group of disorders characterized by delays in communication and socialization skills.

Children may vary in their abilities, intelligence and behaviors. A PDD is typically diagnosed by age three.

Asperger's syndrome (AS): AS is a developmental disorder that includes repetitive routines or rituals, peculiarities in speech and language, such as speaking in a formal manner or monotone, socially and emotionally inappropriate behavior and the inability to interact with peers, clumsy motor movements, and problems with nonverbal communication. Unlike children with autism, children with AS retain their early language skills, but their condition may be realized due to motor development delays, says the National Institutes of Health.

Autism disorder (AD): Also known as classical autism, those with this diagnosis often have the most severe form of ASD. Characteristics of this disorder include repetitive movements, self-abusive behavior, inability to speak or communicate, failure to play with other children, and no smiling or social responsiveness. Many with AD have restricted patterns of interest that are abnormal in intensity or focus.

Because children are placed on the autism spectrum at different severities, autism in general is quite a broad term -- and only seems to be getting broader. Therefore, net ASD includes more and more children who may not have been diagnosed with ASD in the past. Increasingly, doctors and specialists have a better understanding of behaviors and symptoms indicative of ASD, which means more children have the potential for an ASD diagnosis than in the past. These are just some of the factors contributing to why autism rates seem to be growing.

According to Autism Speaks, just a few years ago little was known about the causes of autism. Now it is known that there is no one cause of autism, just as there is no one type. Scientists recently identified a number of rare genetic changes, or mutations, associated with autism. Many cases, however, seem to be a combination of genetics and environmental influences during early brain development. The organization also notes that the clearest evidence of these autism risk factors involves events before and during birth. They include advanced parental age at the time of conception (both of mom and dad), maternal illness during pregnancy and certain difficulties during birth, particularly those involving periods of oxygen deprivation to the baby's brain. These factors don't cause autism, but they can contribute to it.

Autism spectrum disorder affects more than one million children in the United States alone. Mark Roithmayer, president of Autism Speaks, says that autism should officially be considered an epidemic in the United States. Ongoing research and customized treatment options remain the best opportunities for anyone with ASD.

Sampler From S-8

Sliders in the dining area open onto a small side patio. Round columns, with a high display shelf above, mark the boundary between the dining room and the spacious, vaulted living room. The gas fireplace, nestled in a rear corner, provides warmth and color on dreary days and long dark nights. Nearby sliders access a larger, partially covered patio, also accessible from the owners' suite.

The Bergstrom's centrally located bathroom and laundry room provide sound buffering between sleeping areas and gathering spaces. The pass-through utility room doubles as a mudroom and comes in handy for unloading groceries in the dark or in inclement weather.

This Week's Sampler: Bergstrom

Heart of the Bergstrom is open, informal

Square wooden columns resting on tapered river rock bases give a distinctive look to the Bergstrom. Its wide window bay and trio of gables heighten the image of warmth and welcome. The covered porch is more open than most, and practically cries out for installation of an old-fashioned wooden swing on the right-hand side.

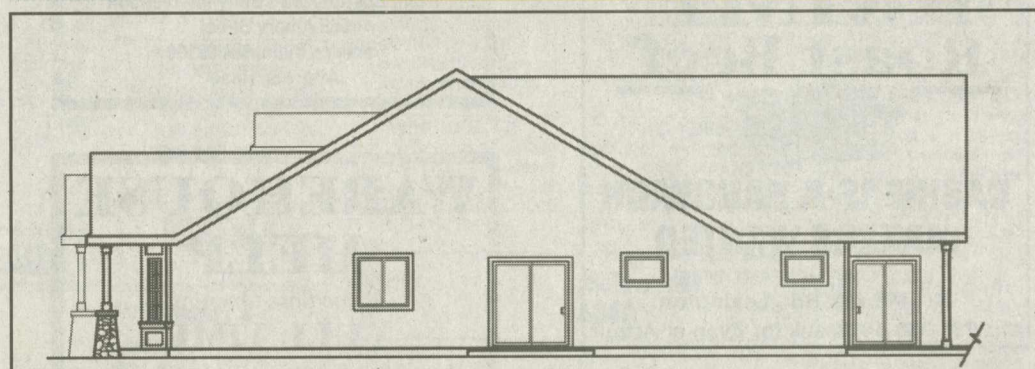

Designed for construction on a narrow lot, this single-level plan is easily adapted for wheelchair accessibility.

Family living spaces fill the right side of the home, where all but the front room are joined in one comfortably large, informal living area. That bayed front room can be furnished as a study, parlor, library or whatever suits your fancy. If having a home office fits into your plans, adding interior and/or exterior doors would make this space ideal.

The kitchen is both large and efficient. Sink, stove and refrigerator form a tight work triangle, while counter space wraps around three sides. A step-in pantry boosts storage space, and the short peninsula could be outfitted as an eating bar, if desired.

CRAFTSMAN HOME PLANS. This charming craftsman home plan features an endearing front gable and slender porch columns with tapered stone bases. Overhead dormer brightens the foyer that is open to bayed study or parlor. Kitchen with pantry & eating bar, is open to vaulted dining/living room.
